RED AIMS UPSET BY U.N.-ACHESON

Chinese Bolster Line Around Supply Area

Reds Again Dip Into Reserves; Allied Advance Inches Ahead

TOKYO, Saturday, June 2 (AP) — Fresh Chinese Communist troops were moved up Friday into defense positions guarding their rugged supply base area in North Korea. The Allied advance above parallel 38 inched ahead in deep mud.

Red China was dipping again into its reserve manpower to rebuild armies shot to pieces in the futile April and May offensives. Red casualties in the first were estimated at more than 75,000.

The U. S. Defense Department estimated more than 162,000 Red losses from mid-May to the 30th — the period preceding and during the second Communist offensive.

Combined, the losses in the two drives were nearly one-half the estimated Chinese and Korean Red combat strength.

Allies Reenter Yanggu

Communist reinforcements pouring into ridgeline defense north of the 38th parallel indicated a determination to hold the Chorwon-Kumhwa-Pyongyang assembly and supply triangle in Central Korea.

It was from that massing area that hordes of Red infantrymen were moved southward in the two ill-fated spring offensives. Concentrated Allied artillery, aerial bombardment and heroic stands by ground troops sent the Reds reeling back.

A mud-caked Allied tank patrol rolled into the southeast corner of the Red buildup triangle without opposition Friday. This was at Yanggu, at the eastern end of Hwachon reservoir and eight miles north of 38.

It was the second day the patrol entered the town. It had met stubborn resistance Thursday.

Aggressive United Nations patrols were meeting increasing resistance everywhere else along the twisting front, except in the far east-central sector.

Red Artillery Fire Heavy

Chinese artillery fire was becoming heavier. Communist MIG-15 jet fighter forays were becoming bolder.

A flight of four U. S. F-86 Sabre jets destroyed two Russian-built MIGs in an air battle that began near the Yalu River boundary of Manchuria and swirled southward more than 100 miles to a point high above Pyongyang.

It was the first time in recent months that Red jets went as far south as the Korean Red capital.

A tail gunner in an American B-29 bomber bagged a third Red jet Friday. It brought the total to six MIGs destroyed and four damaged in two days of air fighting.

Judith Coplon's D. C. Conviction Upheld By Court

New Trial Ordered If Telephone Tapped

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP) —The Washington conviction of Judith Coplon, former Justice Department worker found guilty of spying for Russia, was unanimously upheld today by the U. S. Court of Appeals.

But the court, splitting 2 to 1, said she must be given a new trial if it is established that FBI agents wiretapped her conversations with her attorney before and during her trial.

The Court of Appeals sent the case back to U. S. District Court to find out whether the alleged wiretapping actually occurred.

If so, the court said, Miss Coplon "should be awarded a new trial at which the accused can be free of surreptitious interception of her telephone conversations with her counsel, and can enjoy the right of his effective assistance which is guaranteed by the Constitution."

The Appeals Court ruled the FBI's arrest of Miss Coplon, along with Valentin A. Gubitchev, a Russian, in New York March 4, 1949, was lawful.

"The incidental search of her purse and seizure of the incriminating documents were therefore not unlawful and the documents were properly received in evidence," the decision said.

The arrest was followed by two trials for Miss Coplon—in Washington and New York. In the Washington case, she received a sentence of from 40 months to 10 years for removing secret government documents with the intention of giving them to Russia. She was sentenced to 15 years in the New York case, where the charge was conspiracy to spy for Russia. The evidence in both trials was much the same.

Judge Wilbur K. Miller, who wrote today's decision upholding the Washington conviction, observed that it was in conflict with the holding of the U. S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit (New York).

The New York Appeals Court, in a decision last December by Chief Judge Learned Hand, ruled the arrest illegal. Judge Hand said the resultant search of Miss Coplon's purse and seizure of documents was unlawful and that the documents should not have been admitted into evidence.

Three Czechs Doomed

LONDON, June 1 (AP) — Three Czechs charged with acting for an "American espionage service" were sentenced to death today by the Czechoslovak state court in Prague, a Reuters news agency dispatch said. Four others were sent to prison for from 18 years to life.

OVERRIDDEN — Secretary of State Acheson (above), who told senators yesterday the United Nations army has won a powerful victory over Communism in Korea, was overridden when the inquiry group voted to disclose a secret 1949 State Department document which said the island of Formosa had "no special military significance" and its loss to Red China was expected. Acheson insisted the document was a move to guard U. S. prestige in case Formosa fell to the Reds.

Johnston Urges Pay Lids Pegged To Living Costs

Proposes Immediate Increase Up To 12½%

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP) — Stabilizer Eric Johnston has proposed a new wage formula pegging pay ceilings to living costs and permitting, for millions of workers, an immediate boost ranging up to 12½ per cent above the levels of January, 1950.

Responsible officials disclosed today that Johnston has asked the Wage Stabilization Board to stop handling individual disputes which may set wage precedents and wait until a general formula is adopted.

Pattern "For Duration"

The formula should set the pattern of wage control "for the duration," Johnston maintains, although this depends on the extension of the mobilization act. It expires June 30 and may be revised. The wage ceiling now is 10 per cent above the levels of January, 1950.

Johnston's plan to replace the present limit on wage increases was unfolded by him at a closed meeting with the board yesterday, it war learned. It met disagreement on some particulars. It would:

1. Permit wages to rise by the same percentage as living costs since aJnuary, 1950. This would mean 10.5 per cent, under the old cost-of-living index.

2. Permit annual increases of perhaps two per cent for gains in productivity — more output per worker. Such an increase would be allowed for 1950. This and the proposed cost-of-living increase add to 12½ per cent.

Based On BLS Index

3. Fix standards for the granting of additional increases in cases of "hardship and inequity."

The "productivity" increase would be allowed only if the employer certified that, first, there was a genuine step-up in production per man and, second, he would not seek a price increase based on the wage rise.

Baby Is Uninjured In 3½-Story Plunge

NEW YORK, June 1 (AP)—Two-year-old Harry Dancziger, anxious about his breakfast, crawled out of his crib today and tumbled three and a half stories from a window of his Brooklyn home.

His mother said he apparently became eager for his morning milk feeding, and climbed to the window ledge. He landed on a concrete courtyard. Doctors could find nothing wrong with him. Except he was still hungry.

Veterinarian Confesses To Lovers' Lane Assaults

BOWLING GREEN, O., June 1 (AP)—A prominent veterinarian, who said he was influenced by uncontrollable sex desires, today admitted attacks on three lovers' lane couples.

The veterinarian, married and the father of three children, interrupted his account repeatedly with a plea: "Can't you help me?"

He requested mental help in ridding himself of impulses which, the sheriff related, drove him to throw ammonia water and insect powder at parked couples on dark country lanes.

Latest of the assaults came Memorial Day night. An 18-year-old boy and a 16-year-old girl were parked about one mile south of Bowling Green.

A man drove up and threw ammonia water and an insect powder in their faces. The youngsters climbed out of their machine, half-blinded.

Marsh said there was no actual rape in any of the three cases.

Goes To House For Action Next Week

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP) — The Senate today stamped its final approval on a bill to extend the draft until mid-1955 and set up the mechanics for a permanent universal military training program.

Passage of the compromise measure was by voice vote.

The bill, which had been worked out in a Senate-House conference committee, now goes to the House for scheduled action next week.

Major provisions call for:

1. Reduction of the draft age from 19 to 18½, but no draft board may induct men under 19 until it has exhausted its pool of eligible men between 19-26.

2. Increasing draft service from 21 to 24 months.

Truman Can Call Reservists

3. Authority for the President to call reservists for 24 months of active duty, until July 1, 1953. It would allow inactive reservists, veterans of World War II, to be released within 17 months.

4. Reduction of mental standards from a score of 70 to 65 on the mental qualification test — to bring in an estimated 150,000 4-Fs— and lowering of physical standards back to the level of Jan. 1, 1945.

5. Leaving the authority to defer students up to the draft boards, but men who get occupational deferments would be liable for induction up to the age of 35.

The bill also sets a 5,000,000 ceiling on the armed forces.

Senate passage came after Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) announced that if the bill had come to a roll call vote, he would have voted against it because of what he termed the policies of Secretary of State Acheson.

Only Yanks "Allowed To Die"

The Wisconsin Senator, a bitter critic of Acheson, said the State Department was blocking the use of 600,000 Chinese Nationalists troops in the Korean war, and he told the Senate:

"As a result, only American boys are allowed to die on the battlefield in the fight against Communism."

Sen. Smathers (D-Fla) also took the floor to attack Defense Department policy of calling up thousands of World War II veterans and asking them to fight again in Korea.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga) assured Smathers that World War II veterans in Korea are now being "rotated" and said the bill would permit them to ask discharge after 17 months.

Truman Urges Oil Crisis Talks

TEHRAN, Iran, June 1 (AP) — President Truman took a hand personally today in the British-Iranian oil dispute by sending letters to Premier Mohammed Mossadegh and Prime Minister Attlee reported to urge moderation on both sides.

The unusual move by the President indicated the extreme seriousness with which the U. S. government views the oil crisis. The double-barreled appeal to London and Tehran made it apparent that, although the United States takes a neutral stand on the issue, it cannot remain indifferent to the tense situation here.

Although the contents of the Truman letters were not disclosed, they are reported to urge Iran to negotiate with Britain before moving further to take over the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, and to express hope Britain will try to satisfy some of Iran's demands. The President's letter to Mossadegh apparently offered no solid plan for the proposed negotiations.

Steel For Civilians Slashed Another 10%

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP) — An expected new slash in steel supplies for civilian goods during the July-September quarterly period became a fact today.

The government ordered another ten per cent cut.

The National Production Authority directed consumer good manufacturers to use, effective July 1, only 70 per cent of their average steel consumption during the first half of 1950. They had been allowed 80 per cent in May and June.

Plane Skids Off Runway

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 1 (AP) — An Eastern Air Lines DC-3 passenger plane skidded off a rain-slickened runway at Muscogee County Airport today, sailed over a 30-foot embankment and bellylanded in a field.

None of the 21 passengers and three crew members was injured.

Terrain Another Foe For U. N. In Korea

A convoy of Allied jeeps and trucks moves along a mountanious road north of Chunchon toward Inje in North Korea during the current advance against the retreating Reds. The road is cut alongside the mountain and its shoulders are buttressed with rocks and stones. This kind of terrain has added to the difficulties of Allied troops.

Never-Approved Senate Document Blasts RFC, B & O

Agency Violated Law, Tobey Report Charged

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP) — Sharp criticism of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad was detailed today in the publication of a four-year-old, never approved, Senate document.

The document, a report that Sen. Tobey (R-NH) unsuccessfully submitted to a Senate Banking subcommittee in 1947, said the RFC hurt itself and violated the law in connection with the financing of an $80,000,000 loan to the railroad.

The subcommittee in 1947 voted not to adopt the report on a motion by Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark). Fulbright said he submitted the motion of disapproval at the request of Sen. Capehart (R-Ind), then chairman of the subcommittee.

"Accessory Before Fact"

"RFC fitted itself into the B&O's scheme of things, allowed B&O to handle its funds in a way injurious to the RFC's own interest, but necessary to B&O's plan for a reorganization in 1944, and by this course of conduct made itself an accessory before the fact to an unnecessary reorganization," the Tobey report said.

The RFC-B&O loan came back into the news this week with Tobey's proposal that a new congressional investigation be undertaken by the subcommittee which has been looking into RFC lending policies, under the chairmanship of Sen. Fulbright. Fulbright said yesterday he sees no point to a congressional inquiry, since the courts have passed on the case, but approves the recommendation of RFC Admisistrator W. Stuart Symington that the Justice Department make an investigation.

Record 1942 Profit Cited

The Tobey report centered on the 1945 reorganization of the railroad, contending it was unnecessary in view of the prosperous condition of the line.

It said the B&O made a record profit of $45,300,000 in 1942 (after taxes) but none of this money was applied on the RFC loan due in 1944. It said that much of the profit was diverted to buying up bonds the railroad had outstanding.

Truman To Wind Up His Bay Cruise Today

ABOARD VAGABONDIA III, June 1 (AP)—President Truman plans to return to Washington around noon tomorrow and put in a trans-Atlantic telephone call to daughter Margaret.

Miss Truman is starting a tour of Europe from England. Mr. Truman also expects to call up Mrs. Truman, at the family home in Independence, Mo.

The White House yacht Williamsburg, on which the President has been cruising in the Chesapeake Bay, was anchored for the night in the Potomac River off the Marine Corps base at Quantico, Va. The press ship Vagabondia stood by.

Man Pulls All His Teeth With Pliers, Lands In Hospital

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 1 (AP) —Elza Gobel, 30, was brought to a Charleston hospital in a weakened condition from loss of blood.

Newsmen wanted to know what happened.

"For years now I have not been feeling well in the spring of the year," mumbled Gobel. "I decided it was my teeth and I thought I would pull them."

He did. All 13 of them, with is own pliers.

Manufacturers Grab For Brakes In N. Y. Price War

NEW YORK, June 1 (AP)—Big manufacturers grabbed for the brakes today as New York's runaway price war threatened to spread.

Eversharp, Inc. — which makes pens and pencils—cut off deliveries to Macy's.

Macy's had put palm beach suits as low as $17.94. They regularly sell for $29.95.

Irving A. Kathman, Eversharp vice president, messaged Macy's:

"In view of your failure to maintain fair trade minimum prices on our writing instruments, and have publicly advertised price cuts, we fell compelled to discontinue honoring your orders."

Meanwhile, sharp price cuts were reported in Memphis, first big city outside New York to react to a Supreme Court limitation on fair trade price-fixing agreements.

Palm beach suits are made by Goodall Fabrics Inc. Their president, E. L. Ward, said in Chicago that Macy's must charge regular prices from here on out or go without any more palm beach suits.

Ward singled out Macy's, he said, because the other big New York stores cut prices in self defense after Macy's started it.

Bus And Trolley Ad Broadcasts Are Held Illegal

Programs Deprive Riders Of Liberty

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—It is unconstitutional to force "captive audiences" on buses and street cars to listen to radio commercials and announcements, the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled unanimously today.

It declared that such programs deprive passengers of liberty without due process of law and are in conflict with the Bill of Rights, adopted back in the 18th century long before radio was invented.

Unless reversed by the Supreme Court, the decision means the end of broadcasts on street cars and buses operated by the Capital Transit Company in the Washington area.

The decision, written by Judge Henry W. Edgerton, applies to "commercials" and to "announcements." Edgerton noted that "we are not compelled to decide whether occasional broadcasts of music alone would infringe constitutional rights."

However, without commercials there would be no profit incentive to broadcast on street cars and buses. In Washington the broadcasts consist of soft music interspersed with commercials and news announcements.

The broadcasts began several years ago, under a contract between Capital Transit and Washington Radio, Inc. The contract called for broadcasts at least eight hours daily except Sunday. Six "commercial announcements" an hour are permitted.

Two transit riders, Franklin S. Pollak and Guy Martin, members of a group calling themselves the "Transit Riders Association," carried on the fight against the broadcasts in the face of two earlier defeats. A lower court had upheld the local utilities commission's refusal to outlaw the broadcasts.

Court "Convicts" Kremlin In Detention Camp "Trial"

BRUSSELS, Belgium, June 1 (AP)—A mock court found the Soviet Union guilty today of maintaining concentration camps that represent "a monstrous survival of a slave regime already condemned by history."

The judges were former inmates of Nazi concentration camps — two Frenchmen, two Belgians, a Dutchman, a West German and a Spaniard who fought on the side of the Loyalists against Franco.

The proceedings, which have no real legal basis, were sponsored by the International Committee against Concentration Camp Regimes.

For a week the judges listened to the testimony of 25 former Soviet camp inmates. The sessions were calm up until today. A group of Communists and pro-Communists got into a fight in the hall where the court's finding were being read. Police cleared out the Communists.

A. S. Balachowskky, one of the Frenchmen, was court president. He read the findings, which included these statements:

Soviet laws provide for formation of detention camps where forced labor is practiced. There are a considerable number of camps and a considerable number of inmates. One witness, a former Soviet camp inspector, estimated that one-tenth of Russia's population, nearly 20,000,000 persons, are in camps.

The Soviet police (MVD) has immense power. The police make arrests, maintain the camps and decide when an inmate is to be given his freedom.

Paper Bared Over Protests Of Secretary

Said Formosa Had No Military Meaning

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson told senators today the United Nations army has won a powerful victory over Communism in Korea and upset Red "imperialist aims" throughout all Asia.

He said the Kremlin's plan to shake the free world with a quick and easy conquest in Korea has backfired and resulted instead in bringing the United Nations allies closer together in the test of "collective security."

Acheson brought to the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees — studying the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur—a fighting defense of administration war policies.

But he lost one round when senators forced into the open a secret 1949 State Department document which said the island of Formosa had "no special military significance" and its loss to Red China was expected.

The inquiry group overrode by a 15 to 9 vote Acheson's protests that the disclosure would provide Russia with propaganda material which would hurt the "Voice of America" program abroad.

Move To Guard Prestige

Gen. MacArthur and top-ranking military leaders have testified the Chinese Nationalist stronghold of Formosa has great value in the strategic defenses of the United States—and it must not be permitted to fall to Red China.

Acheson insisted the document—in the form of a memorandum—was sent to consular officers in December, 1949, as a move to guard U. S. prestige in case Formosa fell to the Reds.

He argued the U. S. policy toward Formosa had not changed from October, 1948, to June, 1950, despite the document. He said the policy in that period was to try to keep Formosa out of Red hands by diplomatic means rather than by military action.

"First of all," he told senators, "it was understood and agreed that Formosa has strategic importance so far as the United States was concerned."

Acheson did not run into the barrage of questions expected from Republicans who have aimed at him most of the criticism of administration foreign policy. But this was because most of the day was consumed in debate about release of the Formosa document and direct questioning was limited. He will be questioned again tomorrow starting at 9 a. m., EST.

No Naval Blockade Effort

Questioned by Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the inquiry group, Acheson said the U. S. government has made no effort yet to get United Nations allies to impose a naval blockade against Red China.

Adm. Forrest Sherman, chief of naval operations, has proposed a naval blockade as the next step after economic sanctions to shut off the flow of war goods to the Red armies.

Acheson said: "We have always felt that if we can get a very effective economic blockade, a naval blockade becomes much less important." He added the government has had "considerable success" in getting allies to go along with the economic blockade.

The Secretary rejected the MacArthur war plan to carry the Korean conflict against Red China because, he contended, it would not be conclusive and might draw Russia into the war.

He argued that to adopt the MacArthur proposal would involve this country in a possible all-out war

LeBlanc Plans To Sell His Hadacol Business And Run For Governor

LAFAYETTE, La., June 1 (AP)—State Sen. Dudley LeBlanc said today he plans to sell his Hadacol business to "very large drug house" for $20,000,000.

And if the sale goes through next week as he expects, he said he may run for governor of Louisiana.

LeBlanc said he had signed an option with brokers to sell the business for $20,000,000. LeBlanc would not identify the prospective purchaser other than to say it was "a very large drug house."

LeBlanc, once a supporter of Gov. Earl Long, has broken with the Governor politically and has announced he is considering running for Governor. Long, unable under law to succeed himself, has announced he would run for lieutenant governor next year if he can find a suitable gubernatorial candidate to head his ticket.

Judith Coplon's D. C. Conviction Upheld By Court

New Trial Ordered If Telephone Tapped

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP) —The Washington conviction of Judith Coplon, former Justice Department worker found guilty of spying for Russia, was unanimously upheld today by the U. S. Court of Appeals.

But the court, splitting 2 to 1, said she must be given a new trial if it is established that FBI agents wiretapped her conversations with her attorney before and during her trial.

If so, the court said, Miss Coplon "should be awarded a new trial at which the accused can be free of surreptitious interception of her telephone conversations with her counsel, and can enjoy the right of his effective assistance which is guaranteed by the Constitution."

The Appeals Court ruled the FBI's arrest of Miss Coplon, along with Valentin A. Gubitchev, a Russian, in New York March 4, 1949, was lawful.

"The incidental search of her purse and seizure of the incriminating documents were therefore not unlawful and the documents were properly received in evidence," the decision said.

The arrest was followed by two trials for Miss Coplon—in Washington and New York. In the Washington case, she received a sentence of from 40 months to 10 years for removing secret government documents with the intention of giving them to Russia. She was sentenced to 15 years in the New York case, where the charge was conspiracy to spy for Russia. The evidence in both trials was much the same.

Judge Wilbur K. Miller, who wrote today's decision upholding the Washington conviction, observed that it was in conflict with the holding of the U. S. Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit (New York).

The New York Appeals Court, in a decision last December by Chief Judge Learned Hand, ruled the arrest illegal. Judge Hand said the resultant search of Miss Coplon's purse and seizure of documents was unlawful and that the documents should not have been admitted into evidence.

Proposes Immediate Increase Up To 12½%

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP) — Stabilizer Eric Johnston has proposed a new wage formula pegging pay ceilings to living costs and permitting, for millions of workers, an immediate boost ranging up to 12½ per cent above the levels of January, 1950.

Responsible officials disclosed today that Johnston has asked the Wage Stabilization Board to stop handling individual disputes which may set wage precedents and wait until a general formula is adopted.

Pattern "For Duration"

The formula should set the pattern of wage control "for the duration," Johnston maintains, although this depends on the extension of the mobilization act. It expires June 30 and may be revised. The wage ceiling now is 10 per cent above the levels of January, 1950.

Johnston's plan to replace the present limit on wage increases was unfolded by him at a closed meeting with the board yesterday, it war learned. It met disagreement on some particulars. It would:

1. Permit wages to rise by the same percentage as living costs since aJnuary, 1950. This would mean 10.5 per cent, under the old cost-of-living index.

2. Permit annual increases of perhaps two per cent for gains in productivity — more output per worker. Such an increase would be allowed for 1950. This and the proposed cost-of-living increase add to 12½ per cent.

Based On BLS Index

3. Fix standards for the granting of additional increases in cases of "hardship and inequity."

The "productivity" increase would be allowed only if the employer certified that, first, there was a genuine step-up in production per man and, second, he would not seek a price increase based on the wage rise.

The cost-of-living adjustments would be made quarterly or semi-annually, based on changes shown by the Bureau of Labor Statistics index.

Veterinarian Confesses To Lovers' Lane Assaults

BOWLING GREEN, O., June 1 (AP)—A prominent veterinarian, who said he was influenced by uncontrollable sex desires, today admitted attacks on three lovers' lane couples.

The veterinarian, married and the father of three children, interrupted his account repeatedly with a plea: "Can't you help me?"

He requested mental help in ridding himself of impulses which, the sheriff related, drove him to throw ammonia water and insect powder at parked couples on dark country lanes.

Latest of the assaults came Memorial Day night. An 18-year-old boy and a 16-year-old girl were parked about one mile south of Bowling Green.

A man drove up and threw ammonia water and an insect powder in their faces. The youngsters climbed out of their machine, half-blinded.

Marsh said there was no actual rape in any of the three cases.

Goes To House For Action Next Week

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP) — The Senate today stamped its final approval on a bill to extend the draft until mid-1955 and set up the mechanics for a permanent universal military training program.

Passage of the compromise measure was by voice vote.

The bill, which had been worked out in a Senate-House conference committee, now goes to the House for scheduled action next week.

Major provisions call for:

1. Reduction of the draft age from 19 to 18½, but no draft board may induct men under 19 until it has exhausted its pool of eligible men between 19-26.

2. Increasing draft service from 21 to 24 months.

Truman Can Call Reservists

3. Authority for the President to call reservists for 24 months of active duty, until July 1, 1953. It would allow inactive reservists, veterans of World War II, to be released within 17 months.

4. Reduction of mental standards from a score of 70 to 65 on the mental qualification test — to bring in an estimated 150,000 4-Fs— and lowering of physical standards back to the level of Jan. 1, 1945.

5. Leaving the authority to defer students up to the draft boards, but men who get occupational deferments would be liable for induction up to the age of 35.

The bill also sets a 5,000,000 ceiling on the armed forces.

Senate passage came after Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) announced that if the bill had come to a roll call vote, he would have voted against it because of what he termed the policies of Secretary of State Acheson.

Only Yanks "Allowed To Die"

The Wisconsin Senator, a bitter critic of Acheson, said the State Department was blocking the use of 600,000 Chinese Nationalists troops in the Korean war, and he told the Senate:

"As a result, only American boys are allowed to die on the battlefield in the fight against Communism."

Sen. Smathers (D-Fla) also took the floor to attack Defense Department policy of calling up thousands of World War II veterans and asking them to fight again in Korea.

Sen. Russell (D-Ga) assured Smathers that World War II veterans in Korea are now being "rotated" and said the bill would permit them to ask discharge after 17 months.

Truman Urges Oil Crisis Talks

TEHRAN, Iran, June 1 (AP) — President Truman took a hand personally today in the British-Iranian oil dispute by sending letters to Premier Mohammed Mossadegh and Prime Minister Attlee reported to urge moderation on both sides.

The unusual move by the President indicated the extreme seriousness with which the U. S. government views the oil crisis. The double-barreled appeal to London and Tehran made it apparent that, although the United States takes a neutral stand on the issue, it cannot remain indifferent to the tense situation here.

Although the contents of the Truman letters were not disclosed, they are reported to urge Iran to negotiate with Britain before moving further to take over the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, and to express hope Britain will try to satisfy some of Iran's demands. The President's letter to Mossadegh apparently offered no solid plan for the proposed negotiations.

Steel For Civilians Slashed Another 10%

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP) — An expected new slash in steel supplies for civilian goods during the July-September quarterly period became a fact today.

The government ordered another ten per cent cut.

The National Production Authority directed consumer good manufacturers to use, effective July 1, only 70 per cent of their average steel consumption during the first half of 1950. They had been allowed 80 per cent in May and June.

Plane Skids Off Runway

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 1 (AP) — An Eastern Air Lines DC-3 passenger plane skidded off a rain-slickened runway at Muscogee County Airport today, sailed over a 30-foot embankment and bellylanded in a field.

None of the 21 passengers and three crew members was injured.

Terrain Another Foe For U. N. In Korea

A convoy of Allied jeeps and trucks moves along a mountanious road north of Chunchon toward Inje in North Korea during the current advance against the retreating Reds. The road is cut alongside the mountain and its shoulders are buttressed with rocks and stones. This kind of terrain has added to the difficulties of Allied troops.

Agency Violated Law, Tobey Report Charged

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP) — Sharp criticism of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad was detailed today in the publication of a four-year-old, never approved, Senate document.

The document, a report that Sen. Tobey (R-NH) unsuccessfully submitted to a Senate Banking subcommittee in 1947, said the RFC hurt itself and violated the law in connection with the financing of an $80,000,000 loan to the railroad.

The subcommittee in 1947 voted not to adopt the report on a motion by Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark). Fulbright said he submitted the motion of disapproval at the request of Sen. Capehart (R-Ind), then chairman of the subcommittee.

"Accessory Before Fact"

"RFC fitted itself into the B&O's scheme of things, allowed B&O to handle its funds in a way injurious to the RFC's own interest, but necessary to B&O's plan for a reorganization in 1944, and by this course of conduct made itself an accessory before the fact to an unnecessary reorganization," the Tobey report said.

The RFC-B&O loan came back into the news this week with Tobey's proposal that a new congressional investigation be undertaken by the subcommittee which has been looking into RFC lending policies, under the chairmanship of Sen. Fulbright. Fulbright said yesterday he sees no point to a congressional inquiry, since the courts have passed on the case, but approves the recommendation of RFC Admisistrator W. Stuart Symington that the Justice Department make an investigation.

Record 1942 Profit Cited

The Tobey report centered on the 1945 reorganization of the railroad, contending it was unnecessary in view of the prosperous condition of the line.

It said the B&O made a record profit of $45,300,000 in 1942 (after taxes) but none of this money was applied on the RFC loan due in 1944. It said that much of the profit was diverted to buying up bonds the railroad had outstanding.

Truman To Wind Up His Bay Cruise Today

ABOARD VAGABONDIA III, June 1 (AP)—President Truman plans to return to Washington around noon tomorrow and put in a trans-Atlantic telephone call to daughter Margaret.

The White House yacht Williamsburg, on which the President has been cruising in the Chesapeake Bay, was anchored for the night in the Potomac River off the Marine Corps base at Quantico, Va. The press ship Vagabondia stood by.

Man Pulls All His Teeth With Pliers, Lands In Hospital

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 1 (AP) —Elza Gobel, 30, was brought to a Charleston hospital in a weakened condition from loss of blood.

Newsmen wanted to know what happened.

"For years now I have not been feeling well in the spring of the year," mumbled Gobel. "I decided it was my teeth and I thought I would pull them."

He did. All 13 of them, with is own pliers.

Manufacturers Grab For Brakes In N. Y. Price War

NEW YORK, June 1 (AP)—Big manufacturers grabbed for the brakes today as New York's runaway price war threatened to spread.

Eversharp, Inc. — which makes pens and pencils—cut off deliveries to Macy's.

The big New York department store—head over heels in the middle of the price battle—had no immediate reply to the ultimatums.

Macy's had put palm beach suits as low as $17.94. They regularly sell for $29.95.

Irving A. Kathman, Eversharp vice president, messaged Macy's:

"In view of your failure to maintain fair trade minimum prices on our writing instruments, and have publicly advertised price cuts, we fell compelled to discontinue honoring your orders."

Meanwhile, sharp price cuts were reported in Memphis, first big city outside New York to react to a Supreme Court limitation on fair trade price-fixing agreements.

Palm beach suits are made by Goodall Fabrics Inc. Their president, E. L. Ward, said in Chicago that Macy's must charge regular prices from here on out or go without any more palm beach suits.

Ward singled out Macy's, he said, because the other big New York stores cut prices in self defense after Macy's started it.

Bus And Trolley Ad Broadcasts Are Held Illegal

Programs Deprive Riders Of Liberty

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—It is unconstitutional to force "captive audiences" on buses and street cars to listen to radio commercials and announcements, the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled unanimously today.

It declared that such programs deprive passengers of liberty without due process of law and are in conflict with the Bill of Rights, adopted back in the 18th century long before radio was invented.

Unless reversed by the Supreme Court, the decision means the end of broadcasts on street cars and buses operated by the Capital Transit Company in the Washington area.

The decision, written by Judge Henry W. Edgerton, applies to "commercials" and to "announcements." Edgerton noted that "we are not compelled to decide whether occasional broadcasts of music alone would infringe constitutional rights."

However, without commercials there would be no profit incentive to broadcast on street cars and buses. In Washington the broadcasts consist of soft music interspersed with commercials and news announcements.

The broadcasts began several years ago, under a contract between Capital Transit and Washington Radio, Inc. The contract called for broadcasts at least eight hours daily except Sunday. Six "commercial announcements" an hour are permitted.

Two transit riders, Franklin S. Pollak and Guy Martin, members of a group calling themselves the "Transit Riders Association," carried on the fight against the broadcasts in the face of two earlier defeats. A lower court had upheld the local utilities commission's refusal to outlaw the broadcasts.

Court "Convicts" Kremlin In Detention Camp "Trial"

BRUSSELS, Belgium, June 1 (AP)—A mock court found the Soviet Union guilty today of maintaining concentration camps that represent "a monstrous survival of a slave regime already condemned by history."

The judges were former inmates of Nazi concentration camps — two Frenchmen, two Belgians, a Dutchman, a West German and a Spaniard who fought on the side of the Loyalists against Franco.

The proceedings, which have no real legal basis, were sponsored by the International Committee against Concentration Camp Regimes.

For a week the judges listened to the testimony of 25 former Soviet camp inmates. The sessions were calm up until today. A group of Communists and pro-Communists got into a fight in the hall where the court's finding were being read. Police cleared out the Communists.

A. S. Balachowskky, one of the Frenchmen, was court president. He read the findings, which included these statements:

Soviet laws provide for formation of detention camps where forced labor is practiced. There are a considerable number of camps and a considerable number of inmates. One witness, a former Soviet camp inspector, estimated that one-tenth of Russia's population, nearly 20,000,000 persons, are in camps.

The Soviet police (MVD) has immense power. The police make arrests, maintain the camps and decide when an inmate is to be given his freedom.

Paper Bared Over Protests Of Secretary

Said Formosa Had No Military Meaning

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson told senators today the United Nations army has won a powerful victory over Communism in Korea and upset Red "imperialist aims" throughout all Asia.

He said the Kremlin's plan to shake the free world with a quick and easy conquest in Korea has backfired and resulted instead in bringing the United Nations allies closer together in the test of "collective security."

Acheson brought to the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees — studying the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur—a fighting defense of administration war policies.

But he lost one round when senators forced into the open a secret 1949 State Department document which said the island of Formosa had "no special military significance" and its loss to Red China was expected.

The inquiry group overrode by a 15 to 9 vote Acheson's protests that the disclosure would provide Russia with propaganda material which would hurt the "Voice of America" program abroad.

Move To Guard Prestige

Gen. MacArthur and top-ranking military leaders have testified the Chinese Nationalist stronghold of Formosa has great value in the strategic defenses of the United States—and it must not be permitted to fall to Red China.

Acheson insisted the document—in the form of a memorandum—was sent to consular officers in December, 1949, as a move to guard U. S. prestige in case Formosa fell to the Reds.

He argued the U. S. policy toward Formosa had not changed from October, 1948, to June, 1950, despite the document. He said the policy in that period was to try to keep Formosa out of Red hands by diplomatic means rather than by military action.

"First of all," he told senators, "it was understood and agreed that Formosa has strategic importance so far as the United States was concerned."

Acheson did not run into the barrage of questions expected from Republicans who have aimed at him most of the criticism of administration foreign policy. But this was because most of the day was consumed in debate about release of the Formosa document and direct questioning was limited. He will be questioned again tomorrow starting at 9 a. m., EST.

No Naval Blockade Effort

Questioned by Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the inquiry group, Acheson said the U. S. government has made no effort yet to get United Nations allies to impose a naval blockade against Red China.

Adm. Forrest Sherman, chief of naval operations, has proposed a naval blockade as the next step after economic sanctions to shut off the flow of war goods to the Red armies.

Acheson said: "We have always felt that if we can get a very effective economic blockade, a naval blockade becomes much less important." He added the government has had "considerable success" in getting allies to go along with the economic blockade.

The Secretary rejected the MacArthur war plan to carry the Korean conflict against Red China because, he contended, it would not be conclusive and might draw Russia into the war.

He argued that to adopt the MacArthur proposal would involve this country in a possible all-out war

LeBlanc Plans To Sell His Hadacol Business And Run For Governor

LAFAYETTE, La., June 1 (AP)—State Sen. Dudley LeBlanc said today he plans to sell his Hadacol business to "very large drug house" for $20,000,000.

And if the sale goes through next week as he expects, he said he may run for governor of Louisiana.

LeBlanc said he had signed an option with brokers to sell the business for $20,000,000. LeBlanc would not identify the prospective purchaser other than to say it was "a very large drug house."

LeBlanc, once a supporter of Gov. Earl Long, has broken with the Governor politically and has announced he is considering running for Governor. Long, unable under law to succeed himself, has announced he would run for lieutenant governor next year if he can find a suitable gubernatorial candidate to head his ticket.

Cancer Victim's Wedding Delayed

ATLANTA, June 1 (AP) — Wedding plans of Tom Amburn and his cancer-stricken fiancee were interrupted today when the young sailor had to fly home to his mother in Sioux Falls, S. D.

Amburn, engaged to marry pretty Betty Thompson, said his mother collapsed last night while he talked with her over the telephone.

"The publicity upset my mother and she got such mixed-up reports back home," Tom said. "She heard we already were married and were traveling up there to see her."

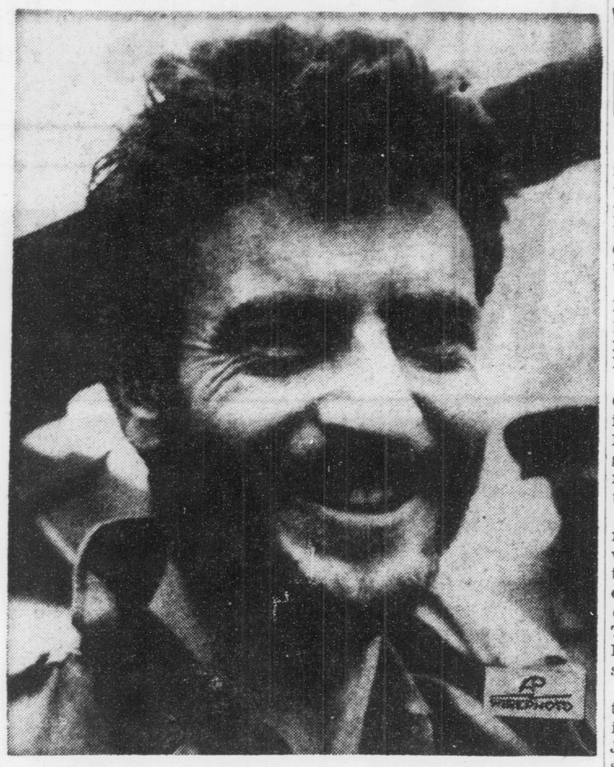
The couple rushed plans for a marriage which both realized was doomed to last only a short time.

Betty has been told she has incurable cancer and hasn't long to live. She lost a leg to the disease two years ago. Her lungs now are infected.

The Georgia Chapter of the American Cancer Society arranged for the emergency flight to South Dakota. The Navy gave the sailor a plane ride as far as St. Louis and the cancer committee has underwritten the rest of the trip.



HE COMES OUT SMILING—Second Lt. Melvin J. Shadduck is a happy man at the end of three weeks as a prisoner of the Chinese Reds in Korea. Shadduck, of Cushing, Minn., a pilot, was shot down behind enemy lines on April 22. Captured a day later, he spent three weeks as a prisoner before being abandoned in the Red retreat. A Greek patrol found the bearded pilot on May 27.

West's Bid Gets Red Headlines

MOSCOW, June 1 (AP) — Soviet newspapers displayed prominently today the news of the West's proposal for a Big Four foreign ministers' conference, but gave no indication the Russians will agree to go to Washington July 23.

The identical notes of Britain, France and the United States proposing such talks were delivered yesterday to the Soviet Foreign Ministry.

Predictions here are that Andrei Gromyko will give Russia's answer in Paris early next week, when the Big Four deputy foreign ministers go into their 14th week of conferring on the agenda for talks by their chiefs.

Although the Soviet press was non-committal on whether Russia would accept the Western invitation to Washington, the newspapers did emphasize the Russian stand that questions of the North Atlantic Treaty and U. S. military bases in Europe must be discussed at any such meeting.

(The West has refused to have these questions included as specific items. But U. S. Deputy Phillip Jessup said in Paris Thursday Russia could bring up the subject if they wanted to under the heading of questions concerning international tension in Europe.)

Ford UAW Local Squabble Follows Invitation To Lewis

DETROIT, June 1 (AP)—An intra-union squabble today followed an invitation to John L. Lewis to speak at the 10th anniversary ceremonies of Ford Local 600, CIO United Auto Workers.

Lewis has accepted the invitation to speak at the June 23 ceremonies. He reportedly was invited by Carl Stellato, president of Local 600, the world's largest.

Joe Berry, chairman of the anniversary committee, resigned his job immediately following the announcement of the invitation to Lewis. He charged Stellato with "connivery" and "left wing manipulation."

Stellato, in announcing the invition to Lewis, praised the United Mine Workers head as "foremost among all labor leaders in the United States."

New Ensigns Told:

Military Squabbling Helped Delay UMT, Marshall Says

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 1 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Marshall told 722 Naval Academy graduates today that the armed services have to share blame for delaying universal military training.

For years they squabbled among themselves, mostly over money for their budgets, the Secretary said at commencement exercises in Dahlgren Hall.

Even as he spoke the Senate in Washington was passing a bill to lay the groundwork for a future universal training program.

Marshall noted the likelihood of Senate approval in his extemporaneaus address before 7,000 persons in the huge academy armory.

The idea of giving all the nation's youth basic military training has knocked around in vain for 30 years, Marshall commented.

Developing cooperation among the armed forces has served to promote adoption of such a program, which he said offers "the only conceivable method by which we can maintain military posture in the world for any length of time."

Dressed in a tan summer suit, Marshall faced solid bank of dress whites as the brigade of midshipmen sent 722 new officers into all the armed forces.

Even the Army received one graduate, Robert A. Renneman, Port Washington, N. Y. at six feet six inches, he's too tall for the Navy. The Army will swear him in tomorrow.

Demonstrating unification of the country's military resources, the academy also delivered 177 second lieutenants to the Air Force.

Taking the oath of Navy officers and gentlemen were 481 new ensigns. Of these, 23 will serve in the supply corps. Another 49 were sworn into the Marine Corps.

Salisbury Millworker Victim Of Tick Fever

Smith, employed by the Bounds Packing Company at nearby Hebron, died yesterday less than 12 hours after he was admitted to Peninsula General Hospital.

Truck Overload To Cost $2,238

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., June 1 (AP)—Maryland's new regulations on overloaded trucks went into effect today, and one of the first drivers arrested was charged with an offense calling for a mandatory fine of $2,238.

The new regulations, produced after a bitter fight between roads officials and trucking interests in the 1951 General Assembly, fix the penalty at six cents per pound if the load is more than 5,000 pounds above the maximum.

The truck driver, 27-year-old Robert M. Cremen, Baltimore, was hauling a stripped-down crane for construction work. He was bound for Baltimore from Delaware when he was stopped by patrolmen on duty at the Susquehanna River bridge weighing station near here.

Maryland, For $2,350,000, Gives Camp Ritchie Back To Government

CAMP RITCHIE, Md., June 1 (AP)—Maryland gave this pretty mountain training camp back to the federal government today for $2,350,000.

The Army wants it as a support base for a mystery-shrouded communications center it is boring out of a mountain across the line in Pennsylvania.

The transfer of possession and the price were confirmed in Baltimore by Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, Maryland's adjutant general. He has been dickering with the federal government for months over the elaborate and picturesque layout on the Blue Ridge.

The state asked $5,000,000 for its National Guard campsite. Gen. Reckord figured the state had a $2,500,000 investment. It also owned, he maintained, $5,000,000 worth of buildings and facilities the federal government built there in the five years it used the camp during World War II for training counter-intelligence corpsmen. He asked the government to pay 50 cents on the dollar for these facilities.

The government conceded it gave Camp Ritchie back to the state after World War II but argued it should not pay anything for the facilities it constructed there entirely at its own expenses.

The Army has turned aside specific questions about what it plans to do with Camp Ritchie but concedes it has something to do with two big holes it is gouging out of Raven Rock Mountain.

One announcement indicated it was to be a vast underground headquarters for the military high command in case Washington came under attack—a bomb-proof Pentagon.

The Army announced later it was to be a communications center. It has refused to elaborate.

Bradley Flies To Paris

Postmaster Admits Opening Rivals' Mail

DETROIT, June 1 (AP) — Julian Zochowski, 24, acting postmaster of Newport, Mich., pleaded guilty in federal court today to a charge of opening other people's mail.

Specifically, he was accused of intercepting letters addressed to rival candidates for the $3,200-a-year postmastership.

Readily admitting the offense, Zochowski said:

"I know I shouldn't have done it, but I was under a terrific nervous strain as to whether I would be confirmed in the job."

Sternwheelers Race At Pittsburgh Today

PITTSBURGH, June 1 (AP)—A $25,000 trophy and the glory of a past era ride with a pair of old sternwheeler steamboats in a three-mile race up the Ohio and Monongahela Rivers tomorrow.

Upwards of 250,000 spectators are expected to watch the annual revival of steamboat racing which climaxes Pittsburgh's annual week-long civic open house celebration, "Welcome Week."

with Russia and at the same time risk the loss of its allies.

Acheson said high officials were unanimous most of the time on Formosa policy. But he conceded there was one break in the unanimity in 1949 when the State Department vetoed a Defense Department move to send a military mission to aid the Chinese Nationalist army.

He explained the department took this stand because it felt a military effort at that time would be "ineffective" and the result would cause "further damage to our prestige and to our whole position in the Far East."

For this reason, he added, President Truman decided against sending the mission.

"The publicity upset my mother and she got such mixed-up reports back home," Tom said. "She heard we already were married and were traveling up there to see her."

The couple rushed plans for a marriage which both realized was doomed to last only a short time.

Betty has been told she has incurable cancer and hasn't long to live. She lost a leg to the disease two years ago. Her lungs now are infected.

The Georgia Chapter of the American Cancer Society arranged for the emergency flight to South Dakota. The Navy gave the sailor a plane ride as far as St. Louis and the cancer committee has underwritten the rest of the trip.

Truck Overload To Cost $2,238

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., June 1 (AP)—Maryland's new regulations on overloaded trucks went into effect today, and one of the first drivers arrested was charged with an offense calling for a mandatory fine of $2,238.

Walter Novash, roads commission patrolman, listed the violation as 37,300 pounds above the allowed weight.

The new regulations, produced after a bitter fight between roads officials and trucking interests in the 1951 General Assembly, fix the penalty at six cents per pound if the load is more than 5,000 pounds above the maximum.

Below that, the penalty is two cents a pound.

The truck driver, 27-year-old Robert M. Cremen, Baltimore, was hauling a stripped-down crane for construction work. He was bound for Baltimore from Delaware when he was stopped by patrolmen on duty at the Susquehanna River bridge weighing station near here.

Postmaster Admits Opening Rivals' Mail

DETROIT, June 1 (AP) — Julian Zochowski, 24, acting postmaster of Newport, Mich., pleaded guilty in federal court today to a charge of opening other people's mail.

Specifically, he was accused of intercepting letters addressed to rival candidates for the $3,200-a-year postmastership.

Readily admitting the offense, Zochowski said:

"I know I shouldn't have done it, but I was under a terrific nervous strain as to whether I would be confirmed in the job."

with Russia and at the same time risk the loss of its allies.

Acheson said high officials were unanimous most of the time on Formosa policy. But he conceded there was one break in the unanimity in 1949 when the State Department vetoed a Defense Department move to send a military mission to aid the Chinese Nationalist army.

He explained the department took this stand because it felt a military effort at that time would be "ineffective" and the result would cause "further damage to our prestige and to our whole position in the Far East."

For this reason, he added, President Truman decided against sending the mission.

HE COMES OUT SMILING—Second Lt. Melvin J. Shadduck is a happy man at the end of three weeks as a prisoner of the Chinese Reds in Korea. Shadduck, of Cushing, Minn., a pilot, was shot down behind enemy lines on April 22. Captured a day later, he spent three weeks as a prisoner before being abandoned in the Red retreat. A Greek patrol found the bearded pilot on May 27.

Maryland, For $2,350,000, Gives Camp Ritchie Back To Government

CAMP RITCHIE, Md., June 1 (AP)—Maryland gave this pretty mountain training camp back to the federal government today for $2,350,000.

The Army wants it as a support base for a mystery-shrouded communications center it is boring out of a mountain across the line in Pennsylvania.

The transfer of possession and the price were confirmed in Baltimore by Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, Maryland's adjutant general. He has been dickering with the federal government for months over the elaborate and picturesque layout on the Blue Ridge.

The state asked $5,000,000 for its National Guard campsite. Gen. Reckord figured the state had a $2,500,000 investment. It also owned, he maintained, $5,000,000 worth of buildings and facilities the federal government built there in the five years it used the camp during World War II for training counter-intelligence corpsmen. He asked the government to pay 50 cents on the dollar for these facilities.

The government conceded it gave Camp Ritchie back to the state after World War II but argued it should not pay anything for the facilities it constructed there entirely at its own expenses.

The Army has turned aside specific questions about what it plans to do with Camp Ritchie but concedes it has something to do with two big holes it is gouging out of Raven Rock Mountain.

One announcement indicated it was to be a vast underground headquarters for the military high command in case Washington came under attack—a bomb-proof Pentagon.

The Army announced later it was to be a communications center. It has refused to elaborate.

West's Bid Gets Red Headlines

MOSCOW, June 1 (AP) — Soviet newspapers displayed prominently today the news of the West's proposal for a Big Four foreign ministers' conference, but gave no indication the Russians will agree to go to Washington July 23.

The identical notes of Britain, France and the United States proposing such talks were delivered yesterday to the Soviet Foreign Ministry.

Predictions here are that Andrei Gromyko will give Russia's answer in Paris early next week, when the Big Four deputy foreign ministers go into their 14th week of conferring on the agenda for talks by their chiefs.

Although the Soviet press was non-committal on whether Russia would accept the Western invitation to Washington, the newspapers did emphasize the Russian stand that questions of the North Atlantic Treaty and U. S. military bases in Europe must be discussed at any such meeting.

(The West has refused to have these questions included as specific items. But U. S. Deputy Phillip Jessup said in Paris Thursday Russia could bring up the subject if they wanted to under the heading of questions concerning international tension in Europe.)

Ford UAW Local Squabble Follows Invitation To Lewis

DETROIT, June 1 (AP)—An intra-union squabble today followed an invitation to John L. Lewis to speak at the 10th anniversary ceremonies of Ford Local 600, CIO United Auto Workers.

Lewis has accepted the invitation to speak at the June 23 ceremonies. He reportedly was invited by Carl Stellato, president of Local 600, the world's largest.

Joe Berry, chairman of the anniversary committee, resigned his job immediately following the announcement of the invitation to Lewis. He charged Stellato with "connivery" and "left wing manipulation."

Stellato, in announcing the invition to Lewis, praised the United Mine Workers head as "foremost among all labor leaders in the United States."

New Ensigns Told:

Military Squabbling Helped Delay UMT, Marshall Says

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 1 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Marshall told 722 Naval Academy graduates today that the armed services have to share blame for delaying universal military training.

For years they squabbled among themselves, mostly over money for their budgets, the Secretary said at commencement exercises in Dahlgren Hall.

Even as he spoke the Senate in Washington was passing a bill to lay the groundwork for a future universal training program.

Marshall noted the likelihood of Senate approval in his extemporaneous address before 7,000 persons in the huge academy armory.

The idea of giving all the nation's youth basic military training has knocked around in vain for 30 years, Marshall commented.

Developing cooperation among the armed forces has served to promote adoption of such a program, which he said offers "the only conceivable method by which we can maintain military posture in the world for any length of time."

Dressed in a tan summer suit, Marshall faced solid bank of dress whites as the brigade of midshipmen sent 722 new officers into all the armed forces.

Even the Army received one graduate, Robert A. Renneman, Port Washington, N. Y. at six feet six inches, he's too tall for the Navy. The Army will swear him in tomorrow.

Demonstrating unification of the country's military resources, the academy also delivered 177 second lieutenants to the Air Force.

Taking the oath of Navy officers and gentlemen were 481 new ensigns. Of these, 23 will serve in the supply corps. Another 49 were sworn into the Marine Corps.

Salisbury Millworker Victim Of Tick Fever

Smith, employed by the Bounds Packing Company at nearby Hebron, died yesterday less than 12 hours after he was admitted to Peninsula General Hospital.

David J. Ward, plant superintendent, said Smith worked inside with sawed, dry lumber and apparently had been bitten by a wood tick.

Medical Schools' Needs

It will surprise many persons to know there are as many as 72 four-year medical schools in the United States, which cost $70,000,000 to operate last year. But that amount, says the Commission on Financing Higher Education, is not nearly adequate.

The commission, consisting of six college presidents and six leaders of industry, cites with approval the report of the special committee of the Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service that $40,000,000 more is needed every year properly to support the medical schools at present enrollment levels. More doctors are needed and a way must be found to train them. The day after the commission's report, announcement was made by former President Herbert Hoover, honorary chairman, and S. Sloan Colt, its president, of the establishment of the National Fund for Medical Education with the purpose of raising $5,000,000 a year, of which $1,000,000 for the current year has already been contributed, and distributing it to the medical schools. The fund has the backing of industry, the medical profession, organized labor, agriculture and outstanding educators.

On the financing commission are men of vision and hard sense. The money has to be raised, but they back away from the all too easy formula "Let Uncle Sam do it!" The commission's second "No!" is to the idea of raising any substantial part of the needed money by increases in tuition fees. These today are higher in medical schools than "for any other university study and, as a profession, medicine demands the longest period of preparation and the greatest overall cost." It was shown that it cost $13,356 to train one typical medical student for four years, of which he contributes one-fourth.

Another "Liberation"

With the "liberation" of Tibet all of the Chinese mainland is now in Communist possession and 3,000,000 more people will feel the knout of Communist rule. These people have been told they are now free of "imperialistic influence" and, as is usual in such cases, it will be their privilege to serve as cannon fodder in the Red armies and have all their affairs run in the best Moscow fashion.

There is no need to guess what this development means for the non-Communist world. It is one more diplomatic defeat for the West and it marks the disappearance of another of those buffer states that have been counted upon to help contain the Soviet.

In consequence of it the Reds have direct access to India and sooner or later Prime Minister Nehru may find that his faith in Communist goodwill is sadly misplaced. Nehru always has contended India has nothing to fear from the Peiping government. It is not unlikely that before long he will learn—and in the hard way—the same bitter lesson the Soviet Union has taught the various states of Eastern Europe.

The fall of Tibet certainly makes more difficult the task of keeping communism from extending its frontiers in Asia. The country is not one that can easily be used as a base of military operations—it is too high in the air for that—but it will serve as a place from which subversive propaganda can be spread throughout the oriental world.

Formosa now remains as the only part of the old Chinese Empire that is non-Communist. It is vital to the protection of the United States that it be kept so.

Getting Closer

Announcement of the successful completion of a new series of atomic weapons tests has been made jointly by the Defense Department and the Atomic Energy Commission. The guarded language of the announcement suggests that at least the preparatory steps toward development and explosion of a hydrogen bomb have been taken at the highly secret proving grounds at Eniwetok atoll.

The announcement refers merely to experiments "contributing" to thermonuclear weapons research. This probably means that a hydrogen bomb of practicable size has not been exploded, but that the major problems surrounding its production have been solved.

The announcement is intentionally vague, but there can be no doubt that what was accomplished at Eniwetok insures that there will be a hydrogen bomb, and a new weapon of unprecedented destructiveness, as soon as the plant for the manufacture of its basic ingredients, being built by duPont in South Carolina, is ready.

Nowhere will the announcement be read with more thoughtful interest than in the Kremlin. The American atomic program cannot, by itself, preserve peace. It is a powerful deterrent, but it must continue to outpace all competitors and it must be reenforced by national resoluteness. America must have both weapons and the will to use them against aggressors. Determination to fight for American beliefs is itself a form of weapon.

Such determination, plus atomic development, are needed if those who seek world domination are going to be held in effective restraint.

Fad's Untimely End

The college fad with the greatest possibilities since goldfish-swallowing seems destined to come to an untimely end. Colleges are closing for the term, putting a temporary end to the latest campus capers. And by autumn the boys probably will have thought of something else.

But if its death knell has been struck, the latest manifestation of goofiness or effervescence at the college level—depending on the viewpoint—came to an end with a fresh burst of publicity. A couple of students at the University of California set a new world's record of 72 hours, eclipsing the former mark of 54 hours and 53 minutes set by a fellow student a few days previously.

That shows how the thing could spiral into an endurance contest the like of which has never been imagined. Future records could be lengthened progressively until a student finally chalked up the ultimate in achievement and devoted his entire four years at college to setting a new world mark. That would be a mark to stand for all time, presumably, unless a student who flunked set a five-year mark.

What is this endurance effervescence marathon that is being brought to a halt through no lack of interest on the part of collegiate participants? Its teeter-tottering. A pair of students ensconce themselves on either end of a teeter-totter and totter and teeter until they have engaged in the feat longer than those who previously had a go at it. Albert Arnold and Jim Trew are the holdover champions until autumn at least. Asked why they did it, Albert said:

Aren't they the cards, though?

How To Keep Well

By DR. T. R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

First Aid In Snakebite

Between two and three thousand humans are bitten by poisonous snakes each year. This is a small number compared with our population and most of us need lose no sleep over rattlers or copperheads. On the other hand, many will be traveling this summer through infested areas and a little knowledge about the vipers might prove life saving.

Because the majority of bites are on the extremities it is advisable to wear leather boots when walking through unfamiliar territory. It is wise to be careful when reaching into burrows or hollow logs and poor policy to step over a fallen tree before taking a look on the other side. Double precautions are necessary at night because venomous types often are nocturnal. It is surprising how many are nipped by handling live snakes or the head of a supposedly dead one. A snake is like a snapping turtle in that the jaws will open and close reflexly for some time in the severed head.

Not all bites are serious. When the accident occurs, the individual who knows his snakes has the advantage because he is better able to identify the viper. The bite of the more venomous varieties usually produces violent pain and there is considerable swelling at the site of the injection. Some victims faint or go into shock and now and then it is difficult to tell whether fear or the poison is responsible for the collapse. At any rate, prompt first aid is important and often influences the outcome. Unless the venom is removed while tsill under the skin, it travels via the blood or lymphatic system to the remainder of the body. The venom of some American snakes is absorbed slowly and has a poisonous effect upon the blood; others paralyze the brain and nerve tissue.

The first step is to apply a tourniquet to prevent the venom from spreading; at the same time the bitten area is incised and suction employed to eradicate as much of the noxious material as possible. Because the extremities usually are involved, the tourniquet generally is applied loosely just above the elbow or the knee of the involved limb. A tourniquet also can be placed two inches above the fang marks; it should be tight enough to impede the lpmphatic and venous circulation but loose enough to allow the blood to enter through the arteries. Every 20 to 30 minutes the device is take noff for a few seconds and then reapplied.

The area surrounding the bite is cleansed and two cross incisions half an inch long and a quarter of an inch deep are made through each fang mark. This should be followed by sucking the wound with the mouth or whatever device is available. Many inexpensive snakebite kits that are carried by campers contain a plastic suction pump that works well. In more severe bites some authorities recommend multiple incisions at higher levels, particularly when swelling is advancing. Suction is applied to these regions also in an effort to draw out the poison from the lymphatic passageways but this procedure is of questionable value.

Meanwhile, the physician is consulted about specific antivenin. This is a horse serum and is used cautiously, especially in individuals with allergic tendencies. Penicillin and tetanus antitoxin help in the prevention of other infections. Transfusions are required to combat shock and anemia stemming from the effect of the venom upon the blood.

PREGNANCY AND EATING

Mrs. J. writes: I'm pregnant and my obstetrician doesn't want me to gain more than 20 pounds. As a result of following these instructions I leave the table hungry at each meal.

REPLY

If you are making progress and gaining weight according to Hoyle, continue to suffer in silence. After the baby arrives, you will thank your physician for preserving your nice figure. Many obese women trace their overweight to the poundage added during pregnancy. It is the quality of the food rather than the quantity that is important and the baby does not benefit from excess blubber in the mother. Furthermore, too much weight invites complications.

PAINFUL TISSUES

F. H. writes: What is myofibrositis?

REPLY

"Myo" refers to muscle; "fibro" to fibrous tissue; and "itis' 'to inflammation. Put them all together and you get inflammation of the fibrous tissue in and about certain muscles. The word is a fancy name, for example, for stiff neck or painful shoulder. In either case, the muscles and fibrous tissue in the affected area are swollen and painful.

P. R. writes: What foods are rich in vitamin D?

REPLY

Only fish liver oils are rich in vitamin D but the following foods contain a certain amount of the substance: clams, cream, egg yolk, haddock, halibut, herring, oyster, salmon, and sardines. Butter has a variable amount. Some foods such as milk and bread are fortified with vitamin D.

"Questions And Answers"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

President Tells Congressmen Of His Wake Island Talk With MacArthur; MacArthur Promised Never To "Be Used By The Republicans Again"

WASHINGTON—President Truman has been holding a series of confidential "fireside chats" with congressional leaders at Blair House in order to provide better cooperation between the White House and Capitol Hill. The meetings were suggested by Senate Majority Leader McFarland of Arizona, and they have been so secret that Democrats not yet invited don't even know they have been taking place.

However, those who attended the last Blair House meeting were Senators Long of Louisiana, Kilgore of West Virginia, Frear of Delaware, Benton of Connecticut and Pastore of Rhode Island; Congressmen Roosevelt of New York, Lesinski of Michigan, Baring of Nevada, Blatnik, of Minnesota and O'Brien of Illinois; also two presidential assistants, Dave Stowe and ex-Congressman John Carroll of Denver.

For close to three hours, President Truman let his hair down and talked about his troubles running the country. The discussion started shortly after 8 p. m. Around 10 o'clock, a maid brought in some ham and cheese sandwiches and coffee. The meeting finally broke up at 10:45 p. m.

Truman And MacArthur

Probably most newsworthy, the President described his private talk with General MacArthur at Wake Island. This was the man-to-man talk that was never heard by anyone else nor taken down in shorthand.

The President quoted MacArthur as vowing never to let the Republicans "use" him again. MacArthur complained to the President that the Republicans had pulled him into the 1948 campaign and had left him flat. He added that he didn't want to get into "anything like that" again and didn't propose to be used by the Republicans.

This, the President said, was one reason he was so shocked to learn that MacArthur had written to House Republican Leader Joe Martin and, once again, had let himself be used by the Republicans.

The President also told how MacArthur had "talked himself out" of the VFW incident. MacArthur's explanation was that he "wasn't aware" that his statement to the Veterans of Foreign Wars convention was in violation of orders. He also said he "wasn't aware" there would be so much public interest in his statement.

Turning to Kilgore, the President remarked ruefully: "I know you advised me a year ago to get rid of MacArthur. I wish I had taken your advice. Lord knows, no one has tried harder than I have to get along with the man. I even flew 8,000 miles to talk to him personally. I gave him enough rope to hang himself a dozen times. He just wasn't satisfied. He had to go further against all good military judgment."

In talking about MacArthur, senators were impressed by the fact that Truman seemed to display no anger or bitterness, chiefly disappointment.

Truman And FDR

The group sat around a long table with Truman in the center on the far side. FDR, Jr., sat at his left and White House Aide Dave Stowe at his right.

The President started off by solemnly describing the critical times that the nation is up against, and the crucial decisions that must be made.

"This is one of the most difficult periods this country has ever faced," he declared. Then, turning to FDR, Jr., he added: ". . . As difficult, perhaps, as some of the crises that faced your father."

"You gentlemen are just as responsible for running the nation as I am," he said. "I need your help."

Senator Benton, Congressman Blatnik of Minnesota, and FDR, Jr., emphasized that a sizable group was ready to back the President on Capitol Hill, but that closer liaison with the White House was needed.

"We don't know what's going to happen ahead of time," Long of Louisiana broke in. "Take Dean Acheson, for example. Some of us may go out on a limb and defend him. Then, maybe a week later, he would be axed."

Truman assured there was no danger of Acheson's being axed, that Acheson was going to stay.

Review Of Russian Policy

The President gave a brief review of American foreign policy from the Yalta, Teheran, Cairo and Moscow conferences down to the present MacArthur debate. He told how the United States went into these conferences hopefully, with no reason to distrust Russia's word. In an aside to FDR, Jr., Truman commented: "Your father attended these conferences, and you know from him that what I am saying is right."

Then the President described how Russia had violated her word and flouted the independence of Poland, Hungary, Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia. Out of 37 definite commitments, Truman reported, Russia has reneged on 33.

"Russia went her way, and we were forced to go our way," the President explained sadly.

Then he told how the United States had embarked on a policy of keeping world peace, but at the same time stopping aggression. However, he stressed that the way to stop communism and build a healthy world isn't by force alone. This led up to his Point 4 program to rehabilitate backward nations.

Untapped Riches

Enthusiastically, Truman pointed out that Ethiopia is 65,000 square miles in area—"a little larger than my home state of Missouri"—yet is covered with a deep layer of rich topsoil, as good as the farm lands of Indiana, Illinois, and Iowa. With reclamation and irrigation, Truman predicted, Ethiopia could produce enough food to feed 150,000,000 people.

"Imagine what this would mean to the starving people of India!" he said.

The President also reported that the Euphrates Valley, which used to be the Garden of Eden, could be made into another Garden of Eden with modern reclamation.

And he told about three tremendous falls in South America that are 100 feet higher than Niagara, send four times the volume of water plunging over them, and could be developed into great sources for electrical power.

Impressed, Senator Benton of Connecticut told how Senator Kerr of Oklahoma had asked a group of seven or eight senators what Truman's Administration would be most remembered for. Someone suggested civilian control of atomic energy. However, Benton said: "I told them I believed the Truman Administration would be most remembered for the Point 4 program, and I think most of the group agreed."

Cost Of Living

By MARK SULLIVAN

The cost of living spiral, and the inflation which is partly a cause and partly an effect of it, is beclouded in the people's minds by some current events that figure large in the news. The price cutting war in some New York department stores attracts much public attention and excites some hope of a reversal of the cost of living spiral. But this is likely to be ephemeral. Once the goods now being sold at cut prices have left the store shelves, the stores will need to re-stock. When they buy new goods they will need to pay manufacturers whatever is the then cost to them, and this cost will be made up mainly of whatever the manufacturers must pay for labor and materials.

Slightly more substantial as a basis of hope for reversal of the cost of living spiral is the announcement that the index figure of cost of living compiled by the government, after reaching an all-time high in January, seemed to pause during the spring months. But a pause is not a reversal. In the great inflations that have taken place during recent years in France and other countries, pauses and even temporary reversals took place from time to time but were succeeded by longer leaps to new highs.

Events In Washington

For sustantial light on whatever is to be the next stage of the cost of living spiral a large source is events at Washington. It is not merely that the government now has far-reaching economic controls on the factors that enter into cost of living. Besides, to a great extent, economics has now become politics.

Two large groups which together, by automatic reaction upon each other, compose a wage-price spiral mechanism are labor and farmers. Both have large power in politics, partly in the sense that leaders of them consciously assert power, partly in the sense that political leaders and candidates defer to them and solicit their support.

If the attitude of President Truman toward labor and farmers were to be judged by his course in his 1948 campaign for the Presidency, we could confidently assume that he would defer to them without qualification. In that campaign he addressed them directly, reminded them that they owed gratitude to the Democratic party, promised them that if elected he would give them occasion for more gratitude. He got their votes, especially those of farmers, in numbers which were the largest single contribution to his victory.

Prisoner Of Labor

In the situation that now exists in Washington Mr. Truman is less a solicitor of labor's favor and promisor to it, than a prisoner of it. Labor leaders have openly bullied him, caused him to make a change which labor leaders demanded in the make-up of an important control agency, the Wage Stabilization Board. They resisted the ceiling which the Board as first formed put upon wages, 10 per cent above the level of January, 1950, and demanded freedom to negotiate with employers for wage raises which would go above 15 per cent. If the present attitude of labor leaders should prevail, and if wage raises now contemplated by some unions should take place, any prospect of a check in the wage-price spiral would go out the window.

About farmers, the picture is confused. Mr. Truman supports his price stabilization board in the rollback in prices of meat which it has decreed. Heads of some of the control agencies have opposed the advantage which farmers were given in the writing of the Defense Production Act which is the statutory authority for the Administration's control agencies.

Consider Congress

Apart from the President there is Congress. Many members of that body, conspicuously the farm bloc, stoutly support the statutes and practices which give advantage to farmers, conspicuously price support of farm crops. The attitude is shared by members of both parties. They are aware that every seat in the House of Representatives is to be filled in the election next year and a third of the Senate seats. And they are aware of the part that price support of fram crops had in Mr. Truman's 1948 victory.

Members of the farm bloc in Congress stoutly oppose any reduction in advantages farmers have in existing laws and practices. If the present economic status of farmers is preserved, prices of farm crops and of food are likely to continue as a dynamic factor tending to keep the cost of living spiral going upward.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Did somebody in the complex setup of the Department of Defense and the Department of State pull a boner and fail to send a certain message to General MacArthur between March 20 and March 24 last?

If this isn't the explanation then some detective had better start solving the mystery. It is very important because Secretary Marshall, General Bradley, General Collins and General Vandenberg have all testified separately under oath to their belief that General MacArthur last March was advised that President Truman had under consideration a proposal for an armistice in Korea which was being circulated at the time to 13 other governments.

Repeated questions by Senator Smith of New Jersey, Senator Wiley of Wisconsin and Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, Senator Knowland of California and Senator Cain of Washington have all brought forth the same answer — namely, that the Joint Chiefs of Staff thought MacArthur knew that the President had the plan under consideration and that our commander in the Far East had been apprised of the main points in it.

Accepted As Fact

Indeed, one of the three reasons written down by General Bradley in behalf of the other members of the Joint Chiefs as the basis for their concurrence in the President's desire to remove General MacArthur is related directly to the very same thing. General Bradley testified that General MacArthur "had also taken independent action in proposing to negotiate directly with the enemy field commander and had made that statement public despite the fact that he knew the President had such a proposal under consideration from a governmental level."

This was immediately accepted as a fact and given prominent headlines in the press.

It has now been brought out in the testimony that the only message that went to General MacArthur was dated March 20 and this merely said that the State Department was "planning presidential announcement." No mention was made of the terms of that proposed announcement and no message ever was sent to General MacArthur to advise him whether the President eventually accepted or adopted the State Department's plan or what the terms of it happened to be. Since he was then the United Nations commander it would seem that General MacArthur should have been advised of such a vital matter affecting his command.

The following from the official record, however, shows what did happen:

"Senator Knowland: Did I understand your testimony earlier in the morning to indicate that with the exception of the message that was sent out about March 20 advising General MacArthur that the State Department was planning a Presidential message that so far as you personally know he received no other specific information regarding that message?

"General Collins: That is my understanding, yes sir."

Later General Collins read into the record the text of a Joint Chiefs of Staff document furnished to the Senate committee which made public for the first time a paraphrase of the terms of the proposed armistice in Korea. The fact that no such message was sent should have been known to the Joint Chiefs because of a telegram sent by General MacArthur to "Newsweek" magazine and published in a full-page advertisement in the newspapers before the Senate hearings began. General MacArthur's telegram was sent to "Newsweek" several days before his dismissal but was made public on April 12. It read:

Explanation Lacking

"The statement contained in your issue of April 2 to the effect that prior to the issuance of my statement on March 24 of the military situation in Korea I had been furnished a copy of a policy statement by the President cleared by the governments having military forces in Korea is entirely without basis in fact. I have never seen such a statement and do not know if it even exists. Please publish this in the interest of truth."

When General MacArthur proposed an armistice to the Chinese commander on March 24 as he had done twice before and as he was doing with leaflets dropped over enemy lines every week in what was known as psychological warfare, a hue and cry went up from Administration sources here that the General had torpedoed its peace plan and used as his own the words of a policy statement that had been circulated to 13 other governments. That story evidently has been mistakenly accepted as true by Secretary Marshall, General Bradley, General Collins and General Vandenberg, and was one of the principal reasons for their willingness to concur in President Truman's proposal that the General be replaced.

It could be that after a message was prepared someone in the State Department suddenly gave orders to someone in the office of the Joint Chiefs not to inform General MacArthur. The incident certainly has not been satisfactorily explained.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

FCC Tyranny

One of the problems raised by administrative law is that the various commissions often usurp the constitutional authority of Congress and even enter upon courses of action, which citizens accept with forebodings.

The Federal Communications Commission is not the smallest offender in this respect, having at times laid down the law, whereas its only function is to administer the law. Thus, in an opinion handed down on March 28, 1951, the FCC permitted itself the following obiter dicta:

". . . It has come to the commission's attention that many motion picture companies refuse to make copies of their films available for use by television stations. Similarly, restrictions are imposed by these companies as to the appearance of actors under contract to the studio on television programs and to the use on televison of stories or plays whose rights have been acquired by the studio. We express no opinion at this time as to whether such practices are or are not in violation of the anti-trust laws. We do desire, however, to point out that whether or not these practices are a violation of any law they are considered by the commission to be relevent in determining the qualifications of applicants utilizing such practices. It is obvious that the success of television will depend to a large measure on the ability of television stations to acquire the best available films and to utilize the best available talent and stories in their programs. Motion picture companies, of course, have the same interest.

"When a television station is owned by a licensee other than a motion picture company, it will compete vigorously with the motion picture companies to secure the best available films, talent and stories for use over his station. Where a television station is owned by a motion picture company which imposes restrictions on the use of films, talent or stories on television stations, obviously a conflict of interest is created and the conflict is likely to be resolved against the television station where the investment in the motion picture part of the enterprise is greater than in the television properties.

"In such a case, a serious policy question is presented as to whether the commission fulfills its obligation to encourage the largest and most effective utilization of television in the public interest when it licenses the station to a person with an obvious conflict of interest which can prevent him from utilizing television to its utmost."

Cutting away the verbiage in this statement, what the FCC says, in effect, is that the motion picture industry must be prepared to hand over to the television industry its principal assets which consist of actors, stories and films built up over a period of half a century. Motion picture companies which restrict the use of their product when such use might damage their existence are to be penalized by the FCC if they apply for television licenses. This is a form of government by blackmail intolerable in a free society.

The view that one industry is obligated to sustain a new and competing industry is novel in American life and American law. It would be difficult to find a precedent for it.

The anti-trust laws were intended to maintain the capitalist system, not to destroy it. Property may exist in many forms, one of which may be in the value of a name, which applied to an actor is a trade-mark. The motion picture companies pay huge amounts to actors, writers and directors, generally out of line with payments for similar services in other fields, after the companies have made huge investments in building the player's name into a trade-mark. Many of them are technically so conditioned that they would have no reputations if they played in the live theater. The property value of those names could be wiped out by faulty presentation.

As Senator Wiley so correctly said of this:

"I should like to point out that not just the Hollywood motion picture producers are involved in this issue, but some 17,000 theaters throughout the country, principally small businesses. The FCC should not so lightly consider a grave action which might, in effect, close down some or all of those theaters, and thus bring about a staggering train of inevitably harsh consequences . . . "

On the whole, such obiter dicta could be tyranny. It is not for a commission to decide such questions, but for Congress and the courts, if we are to retain our constitutional system.

Medical Schools' Needs

It will surprise many persons to know there are as many as 72 four-year medical schools in the United States, which cost $70,000,000 to operate last year. But that amount, says the Commission on Financing Higher Education, is not nearly adequate.

The commission, consisting of six college presidents and six leaders of industry, cites with approval the report of the special committee of the Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service that $40,000,000 more is needed every year properly to support the medical schools at present enrollment levels. More doctors are needed and a way must be found to train them. The day after the commission's report, announcement was made by former President Herbert Hoover, honorary chairman, and S. Sloan Colt, its president, of the establishment of the National Fund for Medical Education with the purpose of raising $5,000,000 a year, of which $1,000,000 for the current year has already been contributed, and distributing it to the medical schools. The fund has the backing of industry, the medical profession, organized labor, agriculture and outstanding educators.

On the financing commission are men of vision and hard sense. The money has to be raised, but they back away from the all too easy formula "Let Uncle Sam do it!" The commission's second "No!" is to the idea of raising any substantial part of the needed money by increases in tuition fees. These today are higher in medical schools than "for any other university study and, as a profession, medicine demands the longest period of preparation and the greatest overall cost." It was shown that it cost $13,356 to train one typical medical student for four years, of which he contributes one-fourth.

Another "Liberation"

With the "liberation" of Tibet all of the Chinese mainland is now in Communist possession and 3,000,000 more people will feel the knout of Communist rule. These people have been told they are now free of "imperialistic influence" and, as is usual in such cases, it will be their privilege to serve as cannon fodder in the Red armies and have all their affairs run in the best Moscow fashion.

There is no need to guess what this development means for the non-Communist world. It is one more diplomatic defeat for the West and it marks the disappearance of another of those buffer states that have been counted upon to help contain the Soviet.

In consequence of it the Reds have direct access to India and sooner or later Prime Minister Nehru may find that his faith in Communist goodwill is sadly misplaced. Nehru always has contended India has nothing to fear from the Peiping government. It is not unlikely that before long he will learn—and in the hard way—the same bitter lesson the Soviet Union has taught the various states of Eastern Europe.

The fall of Tibet certainly makes more difficult the task of keeping communism from extending its frontiers in Asia. The country is not one that can easily be used as a base of military operations—it is too high in the air for that—but it will serve as a place from which subversive propaganda can be spread throughout the oriental world.

Formosa now remains as the only part of the old Chinese Empire that is non-Communist. It is vital to the protection of the United States that it be kept so.

Getting Closer

Announcement of the successful completion of a new series of atomic weapons tests has been made jointly by the Defense Department and the Atomic Energy Commission. The guarded language of the announcement suggests that at least the preparatory steps toward development and explosion of a hydrogen bomb have been taken at the highly secret proving grounds at Eniwetok atoll.

The announcement refers merely to experiments "contributing" to thermonuclear weapons research. This probably means that a hydrogen bomb of practicable size has not been exploded, but that the major problems surrounding its production have been solved.

The announcement is intentionally vague, but there can be no doubt that what was accomplished at Eniwetok insures that there will be a hydrogen bomb, and a new weapon of unprecedented destructiveness, as soon as the plant for the manufacture of its basic ingredients, being built by duPont in South Carolina, is ready.

Nowhere will the announcement be read with more thoughtful interest than in the Kremlin. The American atomic program cannot, by itself, preserve peace. It is a powerful deterrent, but it must continue to outpace all competitors and it must be reenforced by national resoluteness. America must have both weapons and the will to use them against aggressors. Determination to fight for American beliefs is itself a form of weapon.

Such determination, plus atomic development, are needed if those who seek world domination are going to be held in effective restraint.

Fad's Untimely End

The college fad with the greatest possibilities since goldfish-swallowing seems destined to come to an untimely end. Colleges are closing for the term, putting a temporary end to the latest campus capers. And by autumn the boys probably will have thought of something else.

But if its death knell has been struck, the latest manifestation of goofiness or effervescence at the college level—depending on the viewpoint—came to an end with a fresh burst of publicity. A couple of students at the University of California set a new world's record of 72 hours, eclipsing the former mark of 54 hours and 53 minutes set by a fellow student a few days previously.

That shows how the thing could spiral into an endurance contest the like of which has never been imagined. Future records could be lengthened progressively until a student finally chalked up the ultimate in achievement and devoted his entire four years at college to setting a new world mark. That would be a mark to stand for all time, presumably, unless a student who flunked set a five-year mark.

What is this endurance effervescence marathon that is being brought to a halt through no lack of interest on the part of collegiate participants? Its teeter-tottering. A pair of students ensconce themselves on either end of a teeter-totter and totter and teeter until they have engaged in the feat longer than those who previously had a go at it. Albert Arnold and Jim Trew are the holdover champions until autumn at least. Asked why they did it, Albert said:

Aren't they the cards, though?

How To Keep Well

First Aid In Snakebite

Between two and three thousand humans are bitten by poisonous snakes each year. This is a small number compared with our population and most of us need lose no sleep over rattlers or copperheads. On the other hand, many will be traveling this summer through infested areas and a little knowledge about the vipers might prove life saving.

Because the majority of bites are on the extremities it is advisable to wear leather boots when walking through unfamiliar territory. It is wise to be careful when reaching into burrows or hollow logs and poor policy to step over a fallen tree before taking a look on the other side. Double precautions are necessary at night because venomous types often are nocturnal. It is surprising how many are nipped by handling live snakes or the head of a supposedly dead one. A snake is like a snapping turtle in that the jaws will open and close reflexly for some time in the severed head.

Not all bites are serious. When the accident occurs, the individual who knows his snakes has the advantage because he is better able to identify the viper. The bite of the more venomous varieties usually produces violent pain and there is considerable swelling at the site of the injection. Some victims faint or go into shock and now and then it is difficult to tell whether fear or the poison is responsible for the collapse. At any rate, prompt first aid is important and often influences the outcome. Unless the venom is removed while tsill under the skin, it travels via the blood or lymphatic system to the remainder of the body. The venom of some American snakes is absorbed slowly and has a poisonous effect upon the blood; others paralyze the brain and nerve tissue.

The first step is to apply a tourniquet to prevent the venom from spreading; at the same time the bitten area is incised and suction employed to eradicate as much of the noxious material as possible. Because the extremities usually are involved, the tourniquet generally is applied loosely just above the elbow or the knee of the involved limb. A tourniquet also can be placed two inches above the fang marks; it should be tight enough to impede the lpmphatic and venous circulation but loose enough to allow the blood to enter through the arteries. Every 20 to 30 minutes the device is take noff for a few seconds and then reapplied.

The area surrounding the bite is cleansed and two cross incisions half an inch long and a quarter of an inch deep are made through each fang mark. This should be followed by sucking the wound with the mouth or whatever device is available. Many inexpensive snakebite kits that are carried by campers contain a plastic suction pump that works well. In more severe bites some authorities recommend multiple incisions at higher levels, particularly when swelling is advancing. Suction is applied to these regions also in an effort to draw out the poison from the lymphatic passageways but this procedure is of questionable value.

Meanwhile, the physician is consulted about specific antivenin. This is a horse serum and is used cautiously, especially in individuals with allergic tendencies. Penicillin and tetanus antitoxin help in the prevention of other infections. Transfusions are required to combat shock and anemia stemming from the effect of the venom upon the blood.

PREGNANCY AND EATING

Mrs. J. writes: I'm pregnant and my obstetrician doesn't want me to gain more than 20 pounds. As a result of following these instructions I leave the table hungry at each meal.

REPLY

If you are making progress and gaining weight according to Hoyle, continue to suffer in silence. After the baby arrives, you will thank your physician for preserving your nice figure. Many obese women trace their overweight to the poundage added during pregnancy. It is the quality of the food rather than the quantity that is important and the baby does not benefit from excess blubber in the mother. Furthermore, too much weight invites complications.

PAINFUL TISSUES

F. H. writes: What is myofibrositis?

REPLY

"Myo" refers to muscle; "fibro" to fibrous tissue; and "itis" to inflammation. Put them all together and you get inflammation of the fibrous tissue in and about certain muscles. The word is a fancy name, for example, for stiff neck or painful shoulder. In either case, the muscles and fibrous tissue in the affected area are swollen and painful.

VITAMIN D

P. R. writes: What foods are rich in vitamin D?

REPLY

Only fish liver oils are rich in vitamin D but the following foods contain a certain amount of the substance: clams, cream, egg yolk, haddock, halibut, herring, oyster, salmon, and sardines. Butter has a variable amount. Some foods such as milk and bread are fortified with vitamin D.

"Questions And Answers"

DREW PEARSON on—

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

President Tells Congressmen Of His Wake Island Talk With MacArthur; MacArthur Promised Never To "Be Used By The Republicans Again"

WASHINGTON—President Truman has been holding a series of confidential "fireside chats" with congressional leaders at Blair House in order to provide better cooperation between the White House and Capitol Hill. The meetings were suggested by Senate Majority Leader McFarland of Arizona, and they have been so secret that Democrats not yet invited don't even know they have been taking place.

However, those who attended the last Blair House meeting were Senators Long of Louisiana, Kilgore of West Virginia, Frear of Delaware, Benton of Connecticut and Pastore of Rhode Island; Congressmen Roosevelt of New York, Lesinski of Michigan, Baring of Nevada, Blatnik, of Minnesota and O'Brien of Illinois; also two presidential assistants, Dave Stowe and ex-Congressman John Carroll of Denver.

For close to three hours, President Truman let his hair down and talked about his troubles running the country. The discussion started shortly after 8 p. m. Around 10 o'clock, a maid brought in some ham and cheese sandwiches and coffee. The meeting finally broke up at 10:45 p. m.

Truman And MacArthur

Probably most newsworthy, the President described his private talk with General MacArthur at Wake Island. This was the man-to-man talk that was never heard by anyone else nor taken down in shorthand.

The President quoted MacArthur as vowing never to let the Republicans "use" him again. MacArthur complained to the President that the Republicans had pulled him into the 1948 campaign and had left him flat. He added that he didn't want to get into "anything like that" again and didn't propose to be used by the Republicans.

This, the President said, was one reason he was so shocked to learn that MacArthur had written to House Republican Leader Joe Martin and, once again, had let himself be used by the Republicans.

The President also told how MacArthur had "talked himself out" of the VFW incident. MacArthur's explanation was that he "wasn't aware" that his statement to the Veterans of Foreign Wars convention was in violation of orders. He also said he "wasn't aware" there would be so much public interest in his statement.

Turning to Kilgore, the President remarked ruefully: "I know you advised me a year ago to get rid of MacArthur. I wish I had taken your advice. Lord knows, no one has tried harder than I have to get along with the man. I even flew 8,000 miles to talk to him personally. I gave him enough rope to hang himself a dozen times. He just wasn't satisfied. He had to go further against all good military judgment."

In talking about MacArthur, senators were impressed by the fact that Truman seemed to display no anger or bitterness, chiefly disappointment.

Truman And FDR

The group sat around a long table with Truman in the center on the far side. FDR, Jr., sat at his left and White House Aide Dave Stowe at his right.

The President started off by solemnly describing the critical times that the nation is up against, and the crucial decisions that must be made.

"This is one of the most difficult periods this country has ever faced," he declared. Then, turning to FDR, Jr., he added: ". . . As difficult, perhaps, as some of the crises that faced your father."

"You gentlemen are just as responsible for running the nation as I am," he said. "I need your help."

Senator Benton, Congressman Blatnik of Minnesota, and FDR, Jr., emphasized that a sizable group was ready to back the President on Capitol Hill, but that closer liaison with the White House was needed.

"We don't know what's going to happen ahead of time," Long of Louisiana broke in. "Take Dean Acheson, for example. Some of us may go out on a limb and defend him. Then, maybe a week later, he would be axed."

Truman assured there was no danger of Acheson's being axed, that Acheson was going to stay.

Review Of Russian Policy

The President gave a brief review of American foreign policy from the Yalta, Teheran, Cairo and Moscow conferences down to the present MacArthur debate. He told how the United States went into these conferences hopefully, with no reason to distrust Russia's word. In an aside to FDR, Jr., Truman commented: "Your father attended these conferences, and you know from him that what I am saying is right."

Then the President described how Russia had violated her word and flouted the independence of Poland, Hungary, Bulgaria and Czechoslovakia. Out of 37 definite commitments, Truman reported, Russia has reneged on 33.

"Russia went her way, and we were forced to go our way," the President explained sadly.

Then he told how the United States had embarked on a policy of keeping world peace, but at the same time stopping aggression. However, he stressed that the way to stop communism and build a healthy world isn't by force alone. This led up to his Point 4 program to rehabilitate backward nations.

Untapped Riches

Enthusiastically, Truman pointed out that Ethiopia is 65,000 square miles in area—"a little larger than my home state of Missouri"—yet is covered with a deep layer of rich topsoil, as good as the farm lands of Indiana, Illinois, and Iowa. With reclamation and irrigation, Truman predicted, Ethiopia could produce enough food to feed 150,000,000 people.

"Imagine what this would mean to the starving people of India!" he said.

The President also reported that the Euphrates Valley, which used to be the Garden of Eden, could be made into another Garden of Eden with modern reclamation.

And he told about three tremendous falls in South America that are 100 feet higher than Niagara, send four times the volume of water plunging over them, and could be developed into great sources for electrical power.

Impressed, Senator Benton of Connecticut told how Senator Kerr of Oklahoma had asked a group of seven or eight senators what Truman's Administration would be most remembered for. Someone suggested civilian control of atomic energy. However, Benton said: "I told them I believed the Truman Administration would be most remembered for the Point 4 program, and I think most of the group agreed."

Cost Of Living

By MARK SULLIVAN

The cost of living spiral, and the inflation which is partly a cause and partly an effect of it, is beclouded in the people's minds by some current events that figure large in the news. The price cutting war in some New York department stores attracts much public attention and excites some hope of a reversal of the cost of living spiral. But this is likely to be ephemeral. Once the goods now being sold at cut prices have left the store shelves, the stores will need to re-stock. When they buy new goods they will need to pay manufacturers whatever is the then cost to them, and this cost will be made up mainly of whatever the manufacturers must pay for labor and materials.

Slightly more substantial as a basis of hope for reversal of the cost of living spiral is the announcement that the index figure of cost of living compiled by the government, after reaching an all-time high in January, seemed to pause during the spring months. But a pause is not a reversal. In the great inflations that have taken place during recent years in France and other countries, pauses and even temporary reversals took place from time to time but were succeeded by longer leaps to new highs.

Events In Washington

For sustantial light on whatever is to be the next stage of the cost of living spiral a large source is events at Washington. It is not merely that the government now has far-reaching economic controls on the factors that enter into cost of living. Besides, to a great extent, economics has now become politics.

Two large groups which together, by automatic reaction upon each other, compose a wage-price spiral mechanism are labor and farmers. Both have large power in politics, partly in the sense that leaders of them consciously assert power, partly in the sense that political leaders and candidates defer to them and solicit their support.

If the attitude of President Truman toward labor and farmers were to be judged by his course in his 1948 campaign for the Presidency, we could confidently assume that he would defer to them without qualification. In that campaign he addressed them directly, reminded them that they owed gratitude to the Democratic party, promised them that if elected he would give them occasion for more gratitude. He got their votes, especially those of farmers, in numbers which were the largest single contribution to his victory.

Prisoner Of Labor

In the situation that now exists in Washington Mr. Truman is less a solicitor of labor's favor and promisor to it, than a prisoner of it. Labor leaders have openly bullied him, caused him to make a change which labor leaders demanded in the make-up of an important control agency, the Wage Stabilization Board. They resisted the ceiling which the Board as first formed put upon wages, 10 per cent above the level of January, 1950, and demanded freedom to negotiate with employers for wage raises which would go above 15 per cent. If the present attitude of labor leaders should prevail, and if wage raises now contemplated by some unions should take place, any prospect of a check in the wage-price spiral would go out the window.

About farmers, the picture is confused. Mr. Truman supports his price stabilization board in the rollback in prices of meat which it has decreed. Heads of some of the control agencies have opposed the advantage which farmers were given in the writing of the Defense Production Act which is the statutory authority for the Administration's control agencies.

Consider Congress

Apart from the President there is Congress. Many members of that body, conspicuously the farm bloc, stoutly support the statutes and practices which give advantage to farmers, conspicuously price support of farm crops. The attitude is shared by members of both parties. They are aware that every seat in the House of Representatives is to be filled in the election next year and a third of the Senate seats. And they are aware of the part that price support of fram crops had in Mr. Truman's 1948 victory.

Members of the farm bloc in Congress stoutly oppose any reduction in advantages farmers have in existing laws and practices. If the present economic status of farmers is preserved, prices of farm crops and of food are likely to continue as a dynamic factor tending to keep the cost of living spiral going upward.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Did somebody in the complex setup of the Department of Defense and the Department of State pull a boner and fail to send a certain message to General MacArthur between March 20 and March 24 last?

If this isn't the explanation then some detective had better start solving the mystery. It is very important because Secretary Marshall, General Bradley, General Collins and General Vandenberg have all testified separately under oath to their belief that General MacArthur last March was advised that President Truman had under consideration a proposal for an armistice in Korea which was being circulated at the time to 13 other governments.

Repeated questions by Senator Smith of New Jersey, Senator Wiley of Wisconsin and Senator Bridges of New Hampshire, Senator Knowland of California and Senator Cain of Washington have all brought forth the same answer — namely, that the Joint Chiefs of Staff thought MacArthur knew that the President had the plan under consideration and that our commander in the Far East had been apprised of the main points in it.

Accepted As Fact

Indeed, one of the three reasons written down by General Bradley in behalf of the other members of the Joint Chiefs as the basis for their concurrence in the President's desire to remove General MacArthur is related directly to the very same thing. General Bradley testified that General MacArthur "had also taken independent action in proposing to negotiate directly with the enemy field commander and had made that statement public despite the fact that he knew the President had such a proposal under consideration from a governmental level."

This was immediately accepted as a fact and given prominent headlines in the press.

It has now been brought out in the testimony that the only message that went to General MacArthur was dated March 20 and this merely said that the State Department was "planning presidential announcement." No mention was made of the terms of that proposed announcement and no message ever was sent to General MacArthur to advise him whether the President eventually accepted or adopted the State Department's plan or what the terms of it happened to be. Since he was then the United Nations commander it would seem that General MacArthur should have been advised of such a vital matter affecting his command.

The following from the official record, however, shows what did happen:

"Senator Knowland: Did I understand your testimony earlier in the morning to indicate that with the exception of the message that was sent out about March 20 advising General MacArthur that the State Department was planning a Presidential message that so far as you personally know he received no other specific information regarding that message?

"General Collins: That is my understanding, yes sir."

Later General Collins read into the record the text of a Joint Chiefs of Staff document furnished to the Senate committee which made public for the first time a paraphrase of the terms of the proposed armistice in Korea. The fact that no such message was sent should have been known to the Joint Chiefs because of a telegram sent by General MacArthur to "Newsweek" magazine and published in a full-page advertisement in the newspapers before the Senate hearings began. General MacArthur's telegram was sent to "Newsweek" several days before his dismissal but was made public on April 12. It read:

Explanation Lacking

"The statement contained in your issue of April 2 to the effect that prior to the issuance of my statement on March 24 of the military situation in Korea I had been furnished a copy of a policy statement by the President cleared by the governments having military forces in Korea is entirely without basis in fact. I have never seen such a statement and do not know if it even exists. Please publish this in the interest of truth."

When General MacArthur proposed an armistice to the Chinese commander on March 24 as he had done twice before and as he was doing with leaflets dropped over enemy lines every week in what was known as psychological warfare, a hue and cry went up from Administration sources here that the General had torpedoed its peace plan and used as his own the words of a policy statement that had been circulated to 13 other governments. That story evidently has been mistakenly accepted as true by Secretary Marshall, General Bradley, General Collins and General Vandenberg, and was one of the principal reasons for their willingness to concur in President Truman's proposal that the General be replaced.

It could be that after a message was prepared someone in the State Department suddenly gave orders to someone in the office of the Joint Chiefs not to inform General MacArthur. The incident certainly has not been satisfactorily explained.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

FCC Tyranny

One of the problems raised by administrative law is that the various commissions often usurp the constitutional authority of Congress and even enter upon courses of action, which citizens accept with forebodings.

The Federal Communications Commission is not the smallest offender in this respect, having at times laid down the law, whereas its only function is to administer the law. Thus, in an opinion handed down on March 28, 1951, the FCC permitted itself the following obiter dicta:

". . . It has come to the commission's attention that many motion picture companies refuse to make copies of their films available for use by television stations. Similarly, restrictions are imposed by these companies as to the appearance of actors under contract to the studio on television programs and to the use on televison of stories or plays whose rights have been acquired by the studio. We express no opinion at this time as to whether such practices are or are not in violation of the anti-trust laws. We do desire, however, to point out that whether or not these practices are a violation of any law they are considered by the commission to be relevent in determining the qualifications of applicants utilizing such practices. It is obvious that the success of television will depend to a large measure on the ability of television stations to acquire the best available films and to utilize the best available talent and stories in their programs. Motion picture companies, of course, have the same interest.

"When a television station is owned by a licensee other than a motion picture company, it will compete vigorously with the motion picture companies to secure the best available films, talent and stories for use over his station. Where a television station is owned by a motion picture company which imposes restrictions on the use of films, talent or stories on television stations, obviously a conflict of interest is created and the conflict is likely to be resolved against the television station where the investment in the motion picture part of the enterprise is greater than in the television properties.

"In such a case, a serious policy question is presented as to whether the commission fulfills its obligation to encourage the largest and most effective utilization of television in the public interest when it licenses the station to a person with an obvious conflict of interest which can prevent him from utilizing television to its utmost."

Cutting away the verbiage in this statement, what the FCC says, in effect, is that the motion picture industry must be prepared to hand over to the television industry its principal assets which consist of actors, stories and films built up over a period of half a century. Motion picture companies which restrict the use of their product when such use might damage their existence are to be penalized by the FCC if they apply for television licenses. This is a form of government by blackmail intolerable in a free society.

The view that one industry is obligated to sustain a new and competing industry is novel in American life and American law. It would be difficult to find a precedent for it.

The anti-trust laws were intended to maintain the capitalist system, not to destroy it. Property may exist in many forms, one of which may be in the value of a name, which applied to an actor is a trade-mark. The motion picture companies pay huge amounts to actors, writers and directors, generally out of line with payments for similar services in other fields, after the companies have made huge investments in building the player's name into a trade-mark. Many of them are technically so conditioned that they would have no reputations if they played in the live theater. The property value of those names could be wiped out by faulty presentation.

As Senator Wiley so correctly said of this:

"I should like to point out that not just the Hollywood motion picture producers are involved in this issue, but some 17,000 theaters throughout the country, principally small businesses. The FCC should not so lightly consider a grave action which might, in effect, close down some or all of those theaters, and thus bring about a staggering train of inevitably harsh consequences . . . "

On the whole, such obiter dicta could be tyranny. It is not for a commission to decide such questions, but for Congress and the courts, if we are to retain our constitutional system.

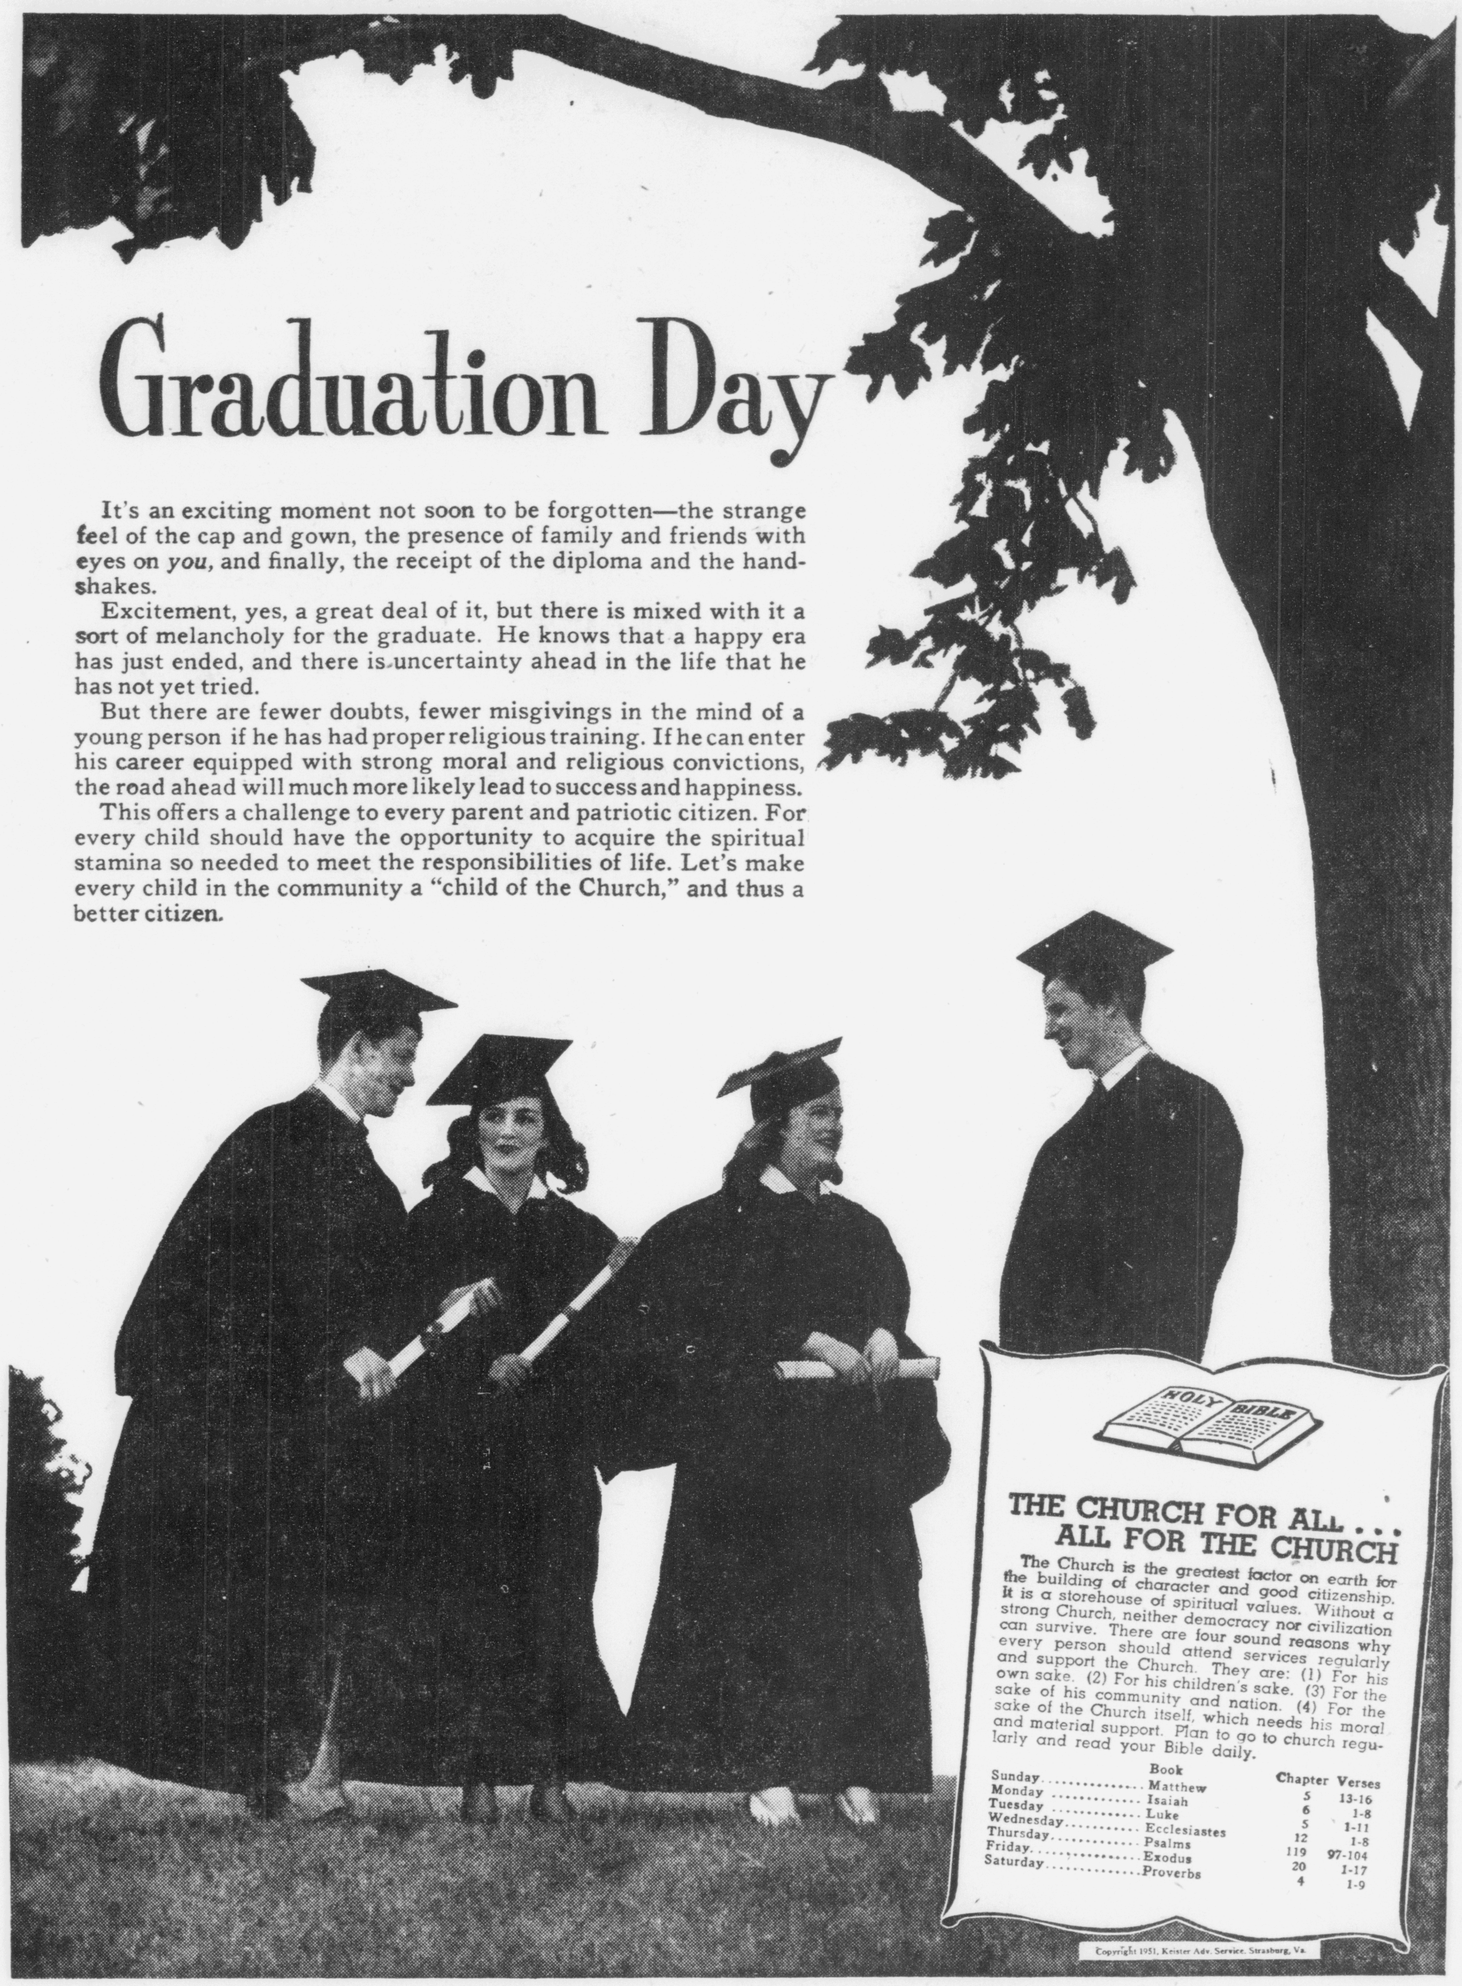
Bring Your Problems To Church This Sunday...Millions Leave Them There!



Graduation Day

It's an exciting moment not soon to be forgotten—the strange feel of the cap and gown, the presence of family and friends with eyes on you, and finally, the receipt of the diploma and the handshakes.

Excitement, yes, a great deal of it, but there is mixed with it a sort of melancholy for the graduate. He knows that a happy era has just ended, and there is uncertainty ahead in the life that he has not yet tried.

But there are fewer doubts, fewer misgivings in the mind of a young person if he has had proper religious training. If he can enter his career equipped with strong moral and religious convictions, the road ahead will much more likely lead to success and happiness.

This offers a challenge to every parent and patriotic citizen. For every child should have the opportunity to acquire the spiritual stamina so needed to meet the responsibilities of life. Let's make every child in the community a "child of the Church," and thus a better citizen.

HOLY BIBLE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Former Trial Magistrate Is Named OPS Representative

Peter J. Carpenti has been named Office of Price Stabilization enforcement representative for Allegany, Garrett and Washington counties.

Currently, the former local trial magistrate is conducting a survey to determine the availability of price regulations and other informational data to those coming under controls.

Hugo R. Hoffmann, state OPS director, said that since price controls began during the latter part of January, supplies of required forms, regulations, amendments and other information needed by businessmen for compliance with OPS orders, have been sent all sections of the state, being forwarded to banks, post offices, chambers of commerce and offices of county clerks.

In spite of all these efforts to get copies of the regulations into the hands of those requiring them for compliance with the price stabilization program, reports in various district offices throughout the United States indicate there are still many who have not received them. In order to correct this situation and to insure proper service, these OPS specialists are conducting the week-long survey.

Carpenti said copies of regulations may be obtained at the City Clerk's Office, the Chamber of Commerce office, or at any Allegany county bank.

"Since the deadline is imminent for compliance with a number of OPS regulations and since a great deal of the success of the fight against inflation depends upon filing of reports by businessmen, it is imperative that all concerned receive copies of the regulations," Carpenti declared.

It is pointed out that the Act, as written by Congress, provides that failure to comply with regulations may be punishable by $10,000 fine and/or a year imprisonment.

Board Names Two Inspectors

The new Board of License Commissioners of Allegany County (which replaces the old Liquor Board) was sworn into office yesterday morning at the Court House.

Walter C. Capper, this city, is chairman of the board, Stanley Hamilton, this city, who had been inspector of the board, is now a commissioner and former Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., is the third commissioner. Capper and Hamilton are Republicans while Bruce is a Democrat.

The commissioners named William T. Porter, 45, of 68 Wood Street, Frostburg, as full-time inspector and Donald A. Young, 34, of 227 South Smallwood Street, was named part-time inspector.

Porter is married and for 20 years was a coal miner. Young, who is a veteran of World War II, is single and a son of Ralph Young, one-time sheriff of Allegany county. He was formerly employed by the Hercules Powder Company at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Pinto.

Porter will receive $250 monthly which amounts to $3,000 annually while Young will get $125 monthly for a $1,500 yearly salary.

The commissioners also announced they would meet every first and third Tuesday of the month to transact business.

The main business at hand yesterday, besides naming the two inspectors, was a discussion on a letter from Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn pertaining to the case of Wahaba Temple, D.O.K.K., North Mechanic Street.

The organization was acquitted in Police Court on May 25 of violating a city ordinance in connection with the alleged sale of intoxicants on Sunday. It was testified that the persons in the clubrooms were members who were helping clean up and the drinks they had were "on the house" and no sales were made.

The commissioners held in abeyance any action on the matter pending further study. It was pointed out during the discussion that the D.O.K.K. organization was acquitted and what action the commissioners could take in view of the situation is not known.

Earl S. Black Resigns Position As Boy Scout Field Executive

EARL S. BLACK

Earl S. Black, field executive for Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, submitted his resignation Thursday night at a meeting of the council's executive board, according to Dr. E. E. Church, of Keyser president.

Dr. Church said Black's resignation was "accepted with reluctance." The field worker, a resident of Petersburg, W. Va., will take the position of field executive for Wyoming Council at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Black will end his four and one half years of duty as an organizer of scouting and cubbing in the Potomac Council's six-county area on June 30.

He will assume his new duties, in the northeastern Pennsylvania council of 3,000 Scouts and Cubs July 1 and will reside at Nanticoke, Pa.

A new field executive will be appointed here, Dr. Church revealed.

Black, a former school teacher, was a scoutmaster at Boonsboro, Md., and at Petersburg for seven years before assuming the full time promotion and development job with Potomac Council on January 1, 1947.

For a time he acted as council executive until the arrival of Willis V. Smith from Morgantown.

A native of Upper Tract, W. Va., Black concentrated his organization efforts in Tri-Towns, New Creek and South Branch districts. Many new troops have been formed in this area in the past several years through his efforts, Dr. Church stated.

Walter C. Capper, this city; is chairman of the board, Stanley Hamilton, this city, who had been inspector of the board, is now a commissioner and former Judge Oliver H. Bruce, Jr., is the third commissioner. Capper and Hamilton are Republicans while Bruce is a Democrat.

The commissioners named William T. Porter, 45, of 68 Wood Street, Frostburg, as full-time inspector and Donald A. Young, 34, of 227 South Smallwood Street, was named part-time inspector.

Porter is married and for 20 years was a coal miner. Young, who is a veteran of World War II, is single and a son of Ralph Young, one-time sheriff of Allegany county. He was formerly employed by the Hercules Powder Company at the Allegany Ballistics Laboratory at Pinto.

Porter will receive $250 monthly which amounts to $3,000 annually while Young will get $125 monthly for a $1,500 yearly salary.

The commissioners also announced they would meet every first and third Tuesday of the month to transact business.

The main business at hand yesterday, besides naming the two inspectors, was a discussion on a letter from Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn pertaining to the case of Wahaba Temple, D.O.K.K., North Mechanic Street.

The organization was acquitted in Police Court on May 25 of violating a city ordinance in connection with the alleged sale of intoxicants on Sunday. It was testified that the persons in the clubrooms were members who were helping clean up and the drinks they had were "on the house" and no sales were made.

The commissioners held in abeyance any action on the matter pending further study. It was pointed out during the discussion that the D.O.K.K. organization was acquitted and what action the commissioners could take in view of the situation is not known.

EARL S. BLACK

Earl S. Black, field executive for Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, submitted his resignation Thursday night at a meeting of the council's executive board, according to Dr. E. E. Church, of Keyser president.

Dr. Church said Black's resignation was "accepted with reluctance." The field worker, a resident of Petersburg, W. Va., will take the position of field executive for Wyoming Council at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Black will end his four and one half years of duty as an organizer of scouting and cubbing in the Potomac Council's six-county area on June 30.

He will assume his new duties, in the northeastern Pennsylvania council of 3,000 Scouts and Cubs July 1 and will reside at Nanticoke, Pa.

A new field executive will be appointed here, Dr. Church revealed.

Black, a former school teacher, was a scoutmaster at Boonsboro, Md., and at Petersburg for seven years before assuming the full time promotion and development job with Potomac Council on January 1, 1947.

For a time he acted as council executive until the arrival of Willis V. Smith from Morgantown.

A native of Upper Tract, W. Va., Black concentrated his organization efforts in Tri-Towns, New Creek and South Branch districts. Many new troops have been formed in this area in the past several years through his efforts, Dr. Church stated.

Beall High School won the championship of the Bi-State Baseball Conference for the second straight year by shutting out LaSalle High School yesterday at Beall High Field, Frostburg, by the score of 9-0.

Coach Ed Finzel's undefeated Mountaineers who have two more games to play with Bruce High before completing their schedule extended their winning streak to 12 games.

Arnone Cops Eleventh

Enardo "Lefty" Arnone posted his 11th consecutive victory, yielded a hit of the scratch varsity and fanned nine to boost his strikeout total for the season to 131. It was Arnone's third straight shutout triumph and the fifth time he had blanked the opposition this season.

Only 23 batsmen faced the Beall ace in the seven inning contest and two of those got on base vie passes. Sloan's infield hit was the lone safety credited to the Explorers.

Beall Gets 11 Hits

Beall solved the offerings of Doug Connolly for 11 safeties, including two blows each for Glass, Brady, Jim Poland and Arnone. One of the latter's blows was a triple and came in the third during Beall's four-run outburst. During that wild frame Brady "bunted" a home run. With George Miller on third, Brady laid down a bunt, Connolly fielded the ball and threw home. While Miller was being chased between third and home, Brady advanced almost to third base and when Byrnes bobbled a throw both runners scored. Beall added three more tallies in the 5th.

Raines Beats Hyndman

Bruce High School tightened its grip on the runner-up position in the Bi-State Conference when it took Hyndman High School into camp at Westernport, 4-2.

Bobby Raines, Bruce High's strikeout artist, mowed down 13 batsmen to run his season's total to 143 victims in 10 games. He limited the hard-hitting Pennsylvanians to four hits and notched win No. 9 against a single loss. May of Hyndman and Smith of Bruce collected two hits each.

Bruce will play Beall for the first time on Tuesday at Westernport. A postponed game between these schools will be played at a later date.

Central Whips Sentinels

The loss was the Sentinels' 10th against three wins this season.

AHS Loses At Barton

Allegany High School went down to defeat at Barton by the score of 6-3.

Arnold Tichnell turned in a four-hit pitching job for the Braves and fanned eight. Ronnie Sisk, AHS twirler, yielded eight safeties, including Billy Hyde's homer with Bailey aboard in the 2nd inning, doubles by Bill Kirk and Emory Wilson and "Tim" Clark's triple.

Knowles Wins French Amateur Golf Tourney

American Defeats De La Maze, 3 And 2

CHANTILLY, France, June 1 (AP)—Bob Knowles of Brookline, Mass., saw his lead in the French amateur golf final cut in half during the last seven holes today but hung on grimly to defeat Henri De La Maze, 3 and 2, for the title.

It was the fifth time De La Maze had gained the final since World War II and only the first time he had been beaten.

Knowles, chubby semifinalist in the 1950 U. S. amateur at Minneapolis, led by six holes as the two turned for home on the final nine holes of their 36-hole marathon over the par 72 layout.

Then the roof fell in. Knowles overshot the 28th green and needed five to get down while De La Maze fired a birdie four. On the next hole Knowles drove into a patch of trees, flubbed his second and sent his third into a trap before he conceded.

The scorekeeper gave him a charitable six while the Frenchman penciled another four on the scorecard. The 30th, also went to De La Maze, who birdied it by sinking an eight-foot putt.

The Brookline socialite pulled himself together there and the next four holes were halved with the match ending on the 34th.

Knowles built up a 1 up edge in the morning round with his card of 35-38—73. De La Maze had 37-37—74. Par is 36-36--72.

After lunch Knowles posted three birdies in the next four holes but had to share the 19th. It was the New Englander's putter that helped him in this stretch, sinking taps of 15 to 25 feet for each win.

De La Maze found the rough to lose the 23rd and Knowles' lead jump to five up on the 24th when the Frenchman three-putted. De La Maze landed in the rough, then among the trees and finally in the trap before he lost the 27th and setting the stage for Knowles' sinking spell on the way home.

These were the best of scores of contenders who played in preliminary games conducted by Charles F. Eberly, fourth and fifth grade teacher.

Next week's school championship will be decided at St. Mary's Tuesday; Johnson Heights Wednesday and Penn Avenue Thursday while Allegany and Fort Hill junior high entries in the city finals are determined in a series of matches conducted at the schools.

Meyer Is Fined $50 For Rhubarb With Robinson

Penalty Is Assessed For Inciting Trouble

BROOKLYN, June 1 (AP)—Russ Meyer, hot-tempered Philadelphia pitcher, today was fined $50 for his rhubarb with Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson last night.

The penalty was assessed for Meyer's "challenging action," and for "inciting trouble."

No action was taken against Robinson.

The players nearly came to blows several times after Meyer had dropped the ball and permitted Robinson to score in the eight inning on a run-down play. That run proved to be the winning one in the Dodgers' 4-3 victory. There was some bumping on the play.

Meyer was lifted from the game but he continued to needle Robinson and challenged the Dodger to meet him under the stands. Robinson started to go but was restrained by teammates. Meyer later apologized to Robinson and Brooklyn manager Chuck Dressen.

It was the third time in two years that the Philly firebrand has been disciplined by National League officials. Two years ago he was suspended for telling off Umpire Frank Dascoli after Robinson stole home.

Last year he was suspended again for "chesting" Umpire Al Barlick and for throwing a ball at him backhanded.

Beall High School won the championship of the Bi-State Baseball Conference for the second straight year by shutting out LaSalle High School yesterday at Beall High Field, Frostburg, by the score of 9-0.

Coach Ed Finzel's undefeated Mountaineers who have two more games to play with Bruce High before completing their schedule extended their winning streak to 12 games.

Arnone Cops Eleventh

Enardo "Lefty" Arnone posted his 11th consecutive victory, yielded a hit of the scratch varsity and fanned nine to boost his strikeout total for the season to 131. It was Arnone's third straight shutout triumph and the fifth time he had blanked the opposition this season.

Only 23 batsmen faced the Beall ace in the seven inning contest and two of those got on base vie passes. Sloan's infield hit was the lone safety credited to the Explorers.

Beall Gets 11 Hits

Beall solved the offerings of Doug Connolly for 11 safeties, including two blows each for Glass, Brady, Jim Poland and Arnone. One of the latter's blows was a triple and came in the third during Beall's four-run outburst. During that wild frame Brady "bunted" a home run. With George Miller on third, Brady laid down a bunt, Connolly fielded the ball and threw home. While Miller was being chased between third and home, Brady advanced almost to third base and when Byrnes bobbled a throw both runners scored. Beall added three more tallies in the 5th.

Raines Beats Hyndman

Bruce High School tightened its grip on the runner-up position in the Bi-State Conference when it took Hyndman High School into camp at Westernport, 4-2.

Bobby Raines, Bruce High's strikeout artist, mowed down 13 batsmen to run his season's total to 143 victims in 10 games. He limited the hard-hitting Pennsylvanians to four hits and notched win No. 9 against a single loss. May of Hyndman and Smith of Bruce collected two hits each.

Bruce will play Beall for the first time on Tuesday at Westernport. A postponed game between these schools will be played at a later date.

Central Whips Sentinels

The loss was the Sentinels' 10th against three wins this season.

AHS Loses At Barton

Allegany High School went down to defeat at Barton by the score of 6-3.

Arnold Tichnell turned in a four-hit pitching job for the Braves and fanned eight. Ronnie Sisk, AHS twirler, yielded eight safeties, including Billy Hyde's homer with Bailey aboard in the 2nd inning, doubles by Bill Kirk and Emory Wilson and "Tim" Clark's triple.

Knowles Wins French Amateur Golf Tourney

CHANTILLY, France, June 1 (AP)—Bob Knowles of Brookline, Mass., saw his lead in the French amateur golf final cut in half during the last seven holes today but hung on grimly to defeat Henri De La Maze, 3 and 2, for the title.

It was the fifth time De La Maze had gained the final since World War II and only the first time he had been beaten.

Knowles, chubby semifinalist in the 1950 U. S. amateur at Minneapolis, led by six holes as the two turned for home on the final nine holes of their 36-hole marathon over the par 72 layout.

Then the roof fell in. Knowles overshot the 28th green and needed five to get down while De La Maze fired a birdie four. On the next hole Knowles drove into a patch of trees, flubbed his second and sent his third into a trap before he conceded.

The scorekeeper gave him a charitable six while the Frenchman penciled another four on the scorecard. The 30th, also went to De La Maze, who birdied it by sinking an eight-foot putt.

The Brookline socialite pulled himself together there and the next four holes were halved with the match ending on the 34th.

Knowles built up a 1 up edge in the morning round with his card of 35-38—73. De La Maze had 37-37—74. Par is 36-36--72.

After lunch Knowles posted three birdies in the next four holes but had to share the 19th. It was the New Englander's putter that helped him in this stretch, sinking taps of 15 to 25 feet for each win.

De La Maze found the rough to lose the 23rd and Knowles' lead jump to five up on the 24th when the Frenchman three-putted. De La Maze landed in the rough, then among the trees and finally in the trap before he lost the 27th and setting the stage for Knowles' sinking spell on the way home.

Penalty Is Assessed For Inciting Trouble

BROOKLYN, June 1 (AP)—Russ Meyer, hot-tempered Philadelphia pitcher, today was fined $50 for his rhubarb with Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson last night.

No action was taken against Robinson.

The players nearly came to blows several times after Meyer had dropped the ball and permitted Robinson to score in the eight inning on a run-down play. That run proved to be the winning one in the Dodgers' 4-3 victory. There was some bumping on the play.

Meyer was lifted from the game but he continued to needle Robinson and challenged the Dodger to meet him under the stands. Robinson started to go but was restrained by teammates. Meyer later apologized to Robinson and Brooklyn manager Chuck Dressen.

It was the third time in two years that the Philly firebrand has been disciplined by National League officials. Two years ago he was suspended for telling off Umpire Frank Dascoli after Robinson stole home.

Last year he was suspended again for "chesting" Umpire Al Barlick and for throwing a ball at him backhanded.

Housing Agency Orders Personnel Reduction

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—A 15 per cent personnel reduction in addition to the closing of six field offices was ordered today by the Public Housing Administration.

The action was taken as a result of drastic reductions by the House in administrative funds for the agency for the 12 months beginning July 1.

A Senate Appropriations subcommittee has recommended restoration of $6,400,000 the House cut from the agency's funds.

Should that be approved by Congress, officials of the agency said, adjustments will be made in today's order.

County Board To Refuse Permits For Walkathons

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday morning announced it would not under any circumstances issue permits for any walkathon, speed derby or similar event for any group or individuals.

William H. Lemmert, board president said that he had received complaints from various sources against permitting these types of entertainment to be held in the county. Commissioners James Orr and James Holmes said they too had received complaints.

It was said at the meeting that some inquiries had been received at the office of Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden pertaining to a permit for one of these events.

Members of the board said that last year's speed derby conducted at Crystal Park resulted in complaints, after the event was over. This program was held for more than a month at the park and attracted hundreds of spectators.

The commissioners said thousands of dollars were spent by spectators who attended the speed derby and that the drain on the economy of the county was not justified. Many of the complaints were made by licensed business places such as theaters, taverns and other amusement establishments, it was pointed out.

The commissioners said that bona fide business places which pay their taxes and have steady payrolls to meet were hurt by the competition from such sources as walkathons and speed derbies.

There is a county law which provides for issuing permits for these events, but the commissioners said they have no intention of granting any such permits. The fine for operating without a permit is from $100 to $500.

It was indicated yesterday that an application to operate one of the events in a large tent was contemplated, but further details were lacking.

Gold Star Mothers Vote In Favor Of UMT

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP) — Gold Star mothers, 1,500 strong, voted today in favor of universal military training — provided it is truly universal.

A resolution adopted at their convention here urged that "no distinction be made between the intellectual or physical capabilities of the citizens" in the universal military training (UMT) bill passed by the Senate today and to be considered in the House next week.

"To do so would set up class distinction and injustice to our way of democratic life," the resolution said.

Acheson And McCarthy Meet—And Shake Hands

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson and Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis), one of his severest critics, met face to face for the first time today — and shook hands.

McCarthy got into the elevator first. A moment later Acheson and an aide walked up and entered the car.

McCarthy, it was learned, introduced himself, saying: "I'm Joe McCarthy." The Secretary said: "I'm Dean Acheson." Then they shook hands.

Acheson Denies He Urged "Mac's" Recall

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson denied today that he started the movement for recall of Gen. Douglas MacArthur or that the Pacific commander's dismissal was urged by U. S. allies.

Acheson told senatorial investigators he "never had the pleasure of meeting" MacArthur. His first intimation that the General was to be fired came in a telephone call from President Truman, the Cabinet member said.

Four Cars of Boilers and Machinery Being Unloaded at German Brewing Plant

This morning the German Brewing Co. received four cars of boilers and machinery, which are now being unloaded, and Mr. Wheeler, an expert erecting engineer, is on the ground superintending the work. Two immense boilers are to supply the steam. The work has been delayed on account of the big iron strike and some necessary girders and heavy beams had to be waited on until the work could go on, but now all of the material having arrived, the plant will be pushed to completion at the earliest moment.

There are several cars of tanks, bins and other machinery on the road and will be placed as soon as they arrive.

Housing Agency Orders Personnel Reduction

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP)—A 15 per cent personnel reduction in addition to the closing of six field offices was ordered today by the Public Housing Administration.

The action was taken as a result of drastic reductions by the House in administrative funds for the agency for the 12 months beginning July 1.

A Senate Appropriations subcommittee has recommended restoration of $6,400,000 the House cut from the agency's funds.

Should that be approved by Congress, officials of the agency said, adjustments will be made in today's order.

County Board To Refuse Permits For Walkathons

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday morning announced it would not under any circumstances issue permits for any walkathon, speed derby or similar event for any group or individuals.

William H. Lemmert, board president said that he had received complaints from various sources against permitting these types of entertainment to be held in the county. Commissioners James Orr and James Holmes said they too had received complaints.

It was said at the meeting that some inquiries had been received at the office of Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden pertaining to a permit for one of these events.

Members of the board said that last year's speed derby conducted at Crystal Park resulted in complaints, after the event was over. This program was held for more than a month at the park and attracted hundreds of spectators.

The commissioners said thousands of dollars were spent by spectators who attended the speed derby and that the drain on the economy of the county was not justified. Many of the complaints were made by licensed business places such as theaters, taverns and other amusement establishments, it was pointed out.

The commissioners said that bona fide business places which pay their taxes and have steady payrolls to meet were hurt by the competition from such sources as walkathons and speed derbies.

There is a county law which provides for issuing permits for these events, but the commissioners said they have no intention of granting any such permits. The fine for operating without a permit is from $100 to $500.

It was indicated yesterday that an application to operate one of the events in a large tent was contemplated, but further details were lacking.

Gold Star Mothers Vote In Favor Of UMT

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP) — Gold Star mothers, 1,500 strong, voted today in favor of universal military training — provided it is truly universal.

A resolution adopted at their convention here urged that "no distinction be made between the intellectual or physical capabilities of the citizens" in the universal military training (UMT) bill passed by the Senate today and to be considered in the House next week.

OPS Looks To Yuletide

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP) — Santa Claus wrappings and decorations for next Christmas already are on the way.

The Office of Price Stabilization let it be known it is considering a price regulation to cover goods made by the plain and printed converted tissue specialties industry.

Ousted Navy Officer Was Butler Worker

The campaign financial statement of Butler, who defeated the veteran Democratic Sen. Millard E. Tydings, showed today Evans was paid $179.06. Evans was not on Navy duty at the time, entering it in February of this year.

Evans, a lieutenant (J. G.) from Edgewater, Md., was dismissed from the Navy last week for writing a letter in which he called the Truman administration "pro-soviet" and Secretary of State Acheson the "Red Dean."

Acheson And McCarthy Meet—And Shake Hands

McCarthy got into the elevator first. A moment later Acheson and an aide walked up and entered the car.

McCarthy, it was learned, introduced himself, saying: "I'm Joe McCarthy." The Secretary said: "I'm Dean Acheson." Then they shook hands.

Acheson Denies He Urged "Mac's" Recall

WASHINGTON, June 1 (AP) — Secretary of State Acheson denied today that he started the movement for recall of Gen. Douglas MacArthur or that the Pacific commander's dismissal was urged by U. S. allies.

Acheson told senatorial investigators he "never had the pleasure of meeting" MacArthur. His first intimation that the General was to be fired came in a telephone call from President Truman, the Cabinet member said.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, June 1 (INS)—Joan Crawford, for the first time in her life, is turning producer. She and Joe Kaufman, together, are making "Sudden Fear" at a cost not to exceed $350,000, with Joan as the star. There is no outside money in the deal, and in lieu of salary Joan will get a percentage of the gross.

Joan Crawford

The way it all happened is interesting. A year ago Joan read "Sudden Fear," by Edna Sherry, and decided she'd like to do it. The book came out about six years ago.

She discovered that Joe Kaufman, co-producer of "Pandora And The Flying Dutchman," owned the rights to the book. She and Kaufman met and decided to make the picture as an independent starting it some time in the late summer.

Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy are so sure they have another Edith Piaf or Marjane or both in Suzy Delair, they're booking her for night club appearances before bringing her to Hollywood for their next comedy.

Suzy is zee oomphy French actress who just finished "Atoll K" with the comics in France. She's got ziss and zatt, according to the French newspapers, plus being able to act.

Come September, Laurel and Hardy return to Europe to star in a revue that will tour the principal cities of Italy. These zanies are so popular in that country that their old hit, "Fra Diavolo," made 20 years ago, is in its third month at a movie house in Rome.

Says Mal: "I sat up until dawn this morning finishing the first draft of the original which will be based on what prompted my decision to leave my career in Hollywood and New York to enter the service of the Kepnywapal Church. It is now ready to turn over to Ida Lupino and Collier Young.

"This story means a great deal to me. I am most anxious for it to help influence others to look beyond immediate material goals in this transient life and to find God and the eternal life which He offers.

"I am also hopeful that this story will be the means whereby I can leave my mother a basis of security as my income will come to a halt for two full years and my savings will be used up paying for my theological education."

Richard Denning and Evelyn Ankers waited eight and a half years to get that honeymoon to Honolulu they promised themselves when they were married. That's how steady Dick has been working in pictures and with Lucille Ball on the radio series, "My Favorite Husband."

Well, they got in three weeks before Universal-International cabled Dick to come home for the Van Heflin-Patricia Neal comedy, "Weekend With Father."

While Bob Hope and Dixie Crosby were both in London, he called on her at Bing's request and took her out to dinner. Dixie is now back in New York, and Bob is on the boat headed for home.

You can take it from me there is nothing to report that Betty Hutton has been dating Greg Batuzer. Betty's heart is elsewhere — so is Greg's.

Mario Lanza helped cook breakfast for 60 of his friends after the premiere of "The Great Caruso." He was so happy that he couldn't get to sleep and all his guests stayed up to celebrate with him.

Maharani's Coats Stolen

WALTON, Eng., May 31 (AP)—The Maharani of Baroda reported to police today that thieves broke into her home here during the night and stole three fur coats valued at £20,000 ($56,000). The thieves went through a bedroom where the Maharani was sleeping.

Every bride should have a full-dress "beauty" rehearsal if she is to look her supreme best on her wedding day!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

On your wedding day, you need not hesitate to try your luck with "Mirror, mirror on the wall, who is the fairest of them all?" A bride's happiness, alone creates an aura and radiance around her that quickens the hearts of all who behold her. At that moment, no woman could be fairer than her.

But is that enough for any bride? No. She wants to be the most beautiful person that it is possible for her to be. And that entails a few practical beauty precautions, which are easy enough to list. But what makes them effective is a full dress rehearsal at least ten days before the bells ring. If the first rehearsal is faulty, you'll still have time for another — yes, and still another if it is needed.

Planned Enchantment

First, decide on the hair style that is most becoming under your cap. Make no radical departure from your accustomed style — the groom must be able to recognize the girl of his dreams! Have your final choice of hair style set one or two days before the ceremony. By sleeping in a net you can do it perfectly, and your coiffure will look more natural with a couple of days of wearing and brushing. Have a supply of pomade and liquid "fixer" on hand for the final moment of grooming. If you are the friend of your hairdresser you should be, she will gladly come to your house to put the finishing touches on your coiffure while you are dressing.

Well in advance of the day, particularly if you wear white or a pastel, select a foundation and powder that permits no severe contrast between your skin and gown. These cosmetics can even be as much as two shades lighter than your skin tone. If you are pale in moments of excitement, wear a very light rouge. If you blush easily, wear no rouge at all.

Lipstick And Nail Shades

Also try out your manicure and lipstick shades, which need not match but must be complementary in tone. For this occasion, choose delicate hues. Make an early appointment for your manicure and pedicure for the day before your wedding. Bring the polish home with you for emergency touch-ups.

On the day of your wedding, use a lipstick "fixer" — unless you think your shade is becoming to the groom, too. After you have finished dressing, take a long, long look in the mirror. You will see the fairest of them all — looking her very fairest!

Joan Crawford

The way it all happened is interesting. A year ago Joan read "Sudden Fear," by Edna Sherry, and decided she'd like to do it. The book came out about six years ago.

She discovered that Joe Kaufman, co-producer of "Pandora And The Flying Dutchman," owned the rights to the book. She and Kaufman met and decided to make the picture as an independent starting it some time in the late summer.

Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy are so sure they have another Edith Piaf or Marjane or both in Suzy Delair, they're booking her for night club appearances before bringing her to Hollywood for their next comedy.

Suzy is zee oomphy French actress who just finished "Atoll K" with the comics in France. She's got ziss and zatt, according to the French newspapers, plus being able to act.

Come September, Laurel and Hardy return to Europe to star in a revue that will tour the principal cities of Italy. These zanies are so popular in that country that their old hit, "Fra Diavolo," made 20 years ago, is in its third month at a movie house in Rome.

This sincere telegram from Mal Boyd needs no comment from me.

Says Mal: "I sat up until dawn this morning finishing the first draft of the original which will be based on what prompted my decision to leave my career in Hollywood and New York to enter the service of the Kepnywapal Church. It is now ready to turn over to Ida Lupino and Collier Young.

"This story means a great deal to me. I am most anxious for it to help influence others to look beyond immediate material goals in this transient life and to find God and the eternal life which He offers.

"I am also hopeful that this story will be the means whereby I can leave my mother a basis of security as my income will come to a halt for two full years and my savings will be used up paying for my theological education."

Richard Denning and Evelyn Ankers waited eight and a half years to get that honeymoon to Honolulu they promised themselves when they were married. That's how steady Dick has been working in pictures and with Lucille Ball on the radio series, "My Favorite Husband."

But about a month ago, they said "to heck with it," packed up, parked their six-year-old daughter with her grandmother, and sailed away to Waikiki Beach.

Well, they got in three weeks before Universal-International cabled Dick to come home for the Van Heflin-Patricia Neal comedy, "Weekend With Father."

While Bob Hope and Dixie Crosby were both in London, he called on her at Bing's request and took her out to dinner. Dixie is now back in New York, and Bob is on the boat headed for home.

You can take it from me there is nothing to report that Betty Hutton has been dating Greg Batuzer. Betty's heart is elsewhere — so is Greg's.

Mario Lanza helped cook breakfast for 60 of his friends after the premiere of "The Great Caruso." He was so happy that he couldn't get to sleep and all his guests stayed up to celebrate with him.

Maharani's Coats Stolen

WALTON, Eng., May 31 (AP)—The Maharani of Baroda reported to police today that thieves broke into her home here during the night and stole three fur coats valued at £20,000 ($56,000). The thieves went through a bedroom where the Maharani was sleeping.

Every bride should have a full-dress "beauty" rehearsal if she is to look her supreme best on her wedding day!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

On your wedding day, you need not hesitate to try your luck with "Mirror, mirror on the wall, who is the fairest of them all?" A bride's happiness, alone creates an aura and radiance around her that quickens the hearts of all who behold her. At that moment, no woman could be fairer than her.

But is that enough for any bride? No. She wants to be the most beautiful person that it is possible for her to be. And that entails a few practical beauty precautions, which are easy enough to list. But what makes them effective is a full dress rehearsal at least ten days before the bells ring. If the first rehearsal is faulty, you'll still have time for another — yes, and still another if it is needed.

Planned Enchantment

First, decide on the hair style that is most becoming under your cap. Make no radical departure from your accustomed style — the groom must be able to recognize the girl of his dreams! Have your final choice of hair style set one or two days before the ceremony. By sleeping in a net you can ho'd it perfectly, and your coiffure will look more natural with a couple of days of wearing and brushing. Have a supply of pomade and liquid "fixer" on hand for the final moment of grooming. If you are the friend of your hairdresser you should be, she will gladly come to your house to put the finishing touches on your coiffure while you are dressing.

Well in advance of the day, particularly if you wear white or a pastel, select a foundation and powder that permits no severe contrast between your skin and gown. These cosmetics can even be as much as two shades lighter than your skin tone. If you are pale in moments of excitement, wear a very light rouge. If you blush easily, wear no rouge at all.

Lipstick And Nail Shades

Also try out your manicure and lipstick shades, which need not match but must be complementary in tone. For this occasion, choose delicate hues. Make an early appointment for your manicure and pedicure for the day before your wedding. Bring the polish home with you for emergency touch-ups.

On the day of your wedding, use a lipstick "fixer" — unless you think your shade is becoming to the groom, too. After you have finished dressing, take a long, long look in the mirror. You will see the fairest of them all — looking her very fairest!

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

And Now—Color

Perhaps the most pregnant words issued in the Supreme Court decision which made the CBS color system the law of the land were those contained in the dubitante handed down by Justice Felix Frankfurter. A dubitante, I'm told, is not a dissent but an expression of doubt. In other words, a Supreme Court Justice, while playing along with the rest of the mob, is dragging one foot; he is venting scepticism, just talking aloud, while still grudgingly signing his name on the proper line.

John Crosby

Frankly, I'm not enchanted that Supreme Court Justices are permitted the privilege of saying well, yes and, on the other hand, no. Supreme Court decisions have always been a little too black and white (take your hands off that pun, brother; I'm permitted one pun a year and that's it reverse to suit me. Dubitante is almost exactly the right word to sum up my feelings about CBS color. I have always been dubitante as hell about CBS color. No outright dissent, you understand, but no outright assent either.

To put it another way, I'm just plain exasperated by the whole thing and I think I sum up the attitude of millions. To thrust color upon us after we have just got the confounded black and white sets to operate with reasonable reliability is a bloody nuisance.

"The enthusiasm which both the public and important national advertisers have shown for color television gives great encouragement that this exciting new medium will grow rapidly," said Frank Stanton, president of CBS.

Well, I have kept my ear pretty close to the ground for years. In fact, my friends say I'd better get that ear off the ground very soon or I'll catch cold down there. Anyhow, the popular clamor for color television somehow eluded that ear—or perhaps it just got drowned out by the uproar over Gen. MacArthur and what ever came over the New York Giants.

CBS's assertion that the public tongue is hanging halfway to its knees in anticipation of color is based on a lot of little white cards which it has passed out at its color demonstrations, after the populace has got drunk on color TV. Well, I admit, you can get drunk as a goat on an hour of CBS color which, I must admit, is a gorgeous thing. After two hours of it you pass out cold. In this condition of insobriety, the folks eagerly attest that they would instantly rush out and buy either a color converter or a whole new set. Then they go home and sleep it off.

Actually, the nuisance of color at this time has not yet been fully realized. Color converters will cost from $100 to $150 apiece, will never be as satisfactory as a color set and will clutter up the living room even more than it now is. In spite of optimistic assertions to the contrary, there will be very little color broadcast outside New York—and not too much inside New York—for some time to come.

My chief objection to color at this time is that it may temporarily confuse an already confused industry which is just five years old, and may retard what some optimists consider its progress. To get back to Justice Frankfurter's dubitante, it "may well make the commission reluctant to sanction new and better standards for color pictures" and the result would be "economic waste on a vast scale."

The reception by the newscasters of the two networks was instructive. Each news item sounded as if it had been cleared by the State Department. Doug Edwards of CBS put it in the middle of the program and went on about it for minutes, explaining in considerable detail just what you could do to get CBS color. He spoke also of "the enthusiasm of the public and the important national advertisers," carefully avoiding any mention of the lack of enthusiasm of the set manufacturers.

• — • — •

John Cameron Swayze, over at NBC, saved the big news for the end of his program, a little feature called "Hopscotching the World for Headlines." He referred to CBS color as "the non-compatible system which cannot be received even in black and white without modification of present sets." He added grimly that RCA, NBC's parent, would continue "with its public demonstrations of its improved, compatible, all-electronic system of color TV," a lot of adjectives which would not ordinarily occur to a man writing a news story.

Most jubilant of all was Arthur Godfrey, CBS's water boy, who got his head bitten off by publicly endorsing CBS color last time the controversy arose. To all those who had written that he was out of bounds in getting into the controversy, he gave a Bronx cheer.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

And Now—Color

Perhaps the most pregnant words issued in the Supreme Court decision which made the CBS color system the law of the land were those contained in the dubitante handed down by Justice Felix Frankfurter. A dubitante, I'm told, is not a dissent but an expression of doubt. In other words, a Supreme Court Justice, while playing along with the rest of the mob, is dragging one foot; he is venting scepticism, just talking aloud, while still grudgingly signing his name on the proper line.

John Crosby

Frankly, I'm not enchanted that Supreme Court Justices are permitted the privilege of saying well, yes and, on the other hand, no. Supreme Court decisions have always been a little too black and white (take your hands off that pun, brother; I'm permitted one pun a year and that's it reverse to suit me. Dubitante is almost exactly the right word to sum up my feelings about CBS color. I have always been dubitante as hell about CBS color. No outright dissent, you understand, but no outright assent either.

To put it another way, I'm just plain exasperated by the whole thing and I think I sum up the attitude of millions. To thrust color upon us after we have just got the confounded black and white sets to operate with reasonable reliability is a bloody nuisance.

• — • — •

"The enthusiasm which both the public and important national advertisers have shown for color television gives great encouragement that this exciting new medium will grow rapidly," said Frank Stanton, president of CBS.

Well, I have kept my ear pretty close to the ground for years. In fact, my friends say I'd better get that ear off the ground very soon or I'll catch cold down there. Anyhow, the popular clamor for color television somehow eluded that ear—or perhaps it just got drowned out by the uproar over Gen. MacArthur and what ever came over the New York Giants.

CBS's assertion that the public tongue is hanging halfway to its knees in anticipation of color is based on a lot of little white cards which it has passed out at its color demonstrations, after the populace has got drunk on color TV. Well, I admit, you can get drunk as a goat on an hour of CBS color which, I must admit, is a gorgeous thing. After two hours of it you pass out cold. In this condition of insobriety, the folks eagerly attest that they would instantly rush out and buy either a color converter or a whole new set. Then they go home and sleep it off.

Actually, the nuisance of color at this time has not yet been fully realized. Color converters will cost from $100 to $150 apiece, will never be as satisfactory as a color set and will clutter up the living room even more than it now is. In spite of optimistic assertions to the contrary, there will be very little color broadcast outside New York—and not too much inside New York—for some time to come.

• — • — •

My chief objection to color at this time is that it may temporarily confuse an already confused industry which is just five years old, and may retard what some optimists consider its progress. To get back to Justice Frankfurter's dubitante, it "may well make the commission reluctant to sanction new and better standards for color pictures" and the result would be "economic waste on a vast scale."

The reception by the newscasters of the two networks was instructive. Each news item sounded as if it had been cleared by the State Department. Doug Edwards of CBS put it in the middle of the program and went on about it for minutes, explaining in considerable detail just what you could do to get CBS color. He spoke also of "the enthusiasm of the public and the important national advertisers," carefully avoiding any mention of the lack of enthusiasm of the set manufacturers.

• — • — •

John Cameron Swayze, over at NBC, saved the big news for the end of his program, a little feature called "Hopscotching the World for Headlines." He referred to CBS color as "the non-compatible system which cannot be received even in black and white without modification of present sets." He added grimly that RCA, NBC's parent, would continue "with its public demonstrations of its improved, compatible, all-electronic system of color TV," a lot of adjectives which would not ordinarily occur to a man writing a news story.

Most jubilant of all was Arthur Godfrey, CBS's water boy, who got his head bitten off by publicly endorsing CBS color last time the controversy arose. To all those who had written that he was out of bounds in getting into the controversy, he gave a Bronx cheer.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Have most women an inferiority complex?

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND—Sat.. Answer: I believe so. Whether they admit it or not, the majority of women in free countries grow up with a sense of being at a disadvantage because they are girls and not boys, and attempt to compensate in one way or another for the feeling of "inferiority" this gives them. But the real cure for this feeling does not lie in proving that they "can do anything a man can" —which is never altogether true, however much success a woman may achieve in some supposedly masculine profession. A woman best conquers her "inferority complex" (if she has one) by succeeding in things which a man cannot do —above all, in being a wife and mother.

Answer: I do not believe so, for two reasons: (1) real fear is based on experience, and no one who fears death has experienced it; and (2) you cannot actually imagine yourself dead in the sense of having ceased to exist. Fear of death may be neurotic or comparatively normal, but in either sense it centers on the ideas you associate with death, not with death itself—for example, on the thought of being separated from your loved ones, or deprived of cherished pleasures. As a rule, the conscious fear of death is strongest among people who associate it with being "brought to judgment."

Is group psychotherapy a success?

Answer: Evidently, though it has and always will have limitations. According to four psychologists reporting in the Journal of Social Issues, patients and group leaders agree that most patients have been benefited by group psychotherapy, although it is not always possible to say how. No one appeared the worse for it, though some had to supplement it with individual treatment. The main value of the therapeutic sessions seemed to be in breaking down the barriers which shut off an individual from his neighbors through helping him realize that he and they have the same problems and shortcomings.

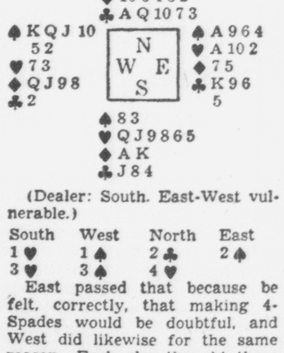
"The Authority on Authorities"

SAVE HIM THE GUESS

IT IS UP to you to save your partner from a guess, when you possess the information which enables you to see an effective defense against the opponent's contract. He may or may not be able to infer what you know. Perhaps the indications, from his point of vantage or disadvantage, may be just the reverse of the facts that actually exist. To depend on his making the applicable deductions amounts to resting your case on mere hopes in preference to a sure thing.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	1 ♠	2 ♣	2 ♠
3 ♥	3 ♠	4 ♥

East passed that because he felt, correctly, that making 4-Spades would be doubtful, and West did likewise for the same reason. Each also thought there was a good chance to beat the 4-Hearts, though not good enough to double it. Actually there was a good chance, but not good enough for this pair.

West scored his spade K, on which East for some obscure reason put his 9. Reflecting on that, West decided the purpose of it could not have been to show the A, since the winning of the trick by the K would do that. So he reckoned it was a suit-preference signal asking for a shift to the higher-ranking diamonds instead of the lower-ranking clubs. That combination of elements presented the declarer his contract.

South won the second trick with the diamond K and promptly ruffed the spade 8 with the heart 4. The heart K then was won by the A for the defense's second trick. Back came the diamond 5 to the A. Two more hearts cleared the defenders of trumps and the only trick they still could win was their third, when the club J was finessed to the K.

East should have overtaken the spade K lead with his A, then should have scored the heart A and led the 2. That would have made it impossible for South to ruff out his last spade. A loser in each suit then would have beaten the contract. Or, if East had signaled low, with his 4 on the spade opening, West would have shifted to his singleton club, ultimately assuring the setting trick there with a ruff.

* * *

Your Weekend Question

Do you understand the hold-up play whereby you refuse to use the ace on the first round of a side suit so that you may win the second trick of the suit with it and then make a lead which gives your partner the setting ruff? Can you cite, or set up, an example of it?

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Have most women an inferiority complex?

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND—Sat..

Answer: I believe so. Whether they admit it or not, the majority of women in free countries grow up with a sense of being at a disadvantage because they are girls and not boys, and attempt to compensate in one way or another for the feeling of "inferiority" this gives them. But the real cure for this feeling does not lie in proving that they "can do anything a man can" —which is never altogether true, however much success a woman may achieve in some supposedly masculine profession. A woman best conquers her "inferority complex" (if she has one) by succeeding in things which a man cannot do —above all, in being a wife and mother.

Does anyone really fear death?

Answer: I do not believe so, for two reasons: (1) real fear is based on experience, and no one who fears death has experienced it; and (2) you cannot actually imagine yourself dead in the sense of having ceased to exist. Fear of death may be neurotic or comparatively normal, but in either sense it centers on the ideas you associate with death, not with death itself—for example, on the thought of being separated from your loved ones, or deprived of cherished pleasures. As a rule, the conscious fear of death is strongest among people who associate it with being "brought to judgment."

Is group psychotherapy a success?

Answer: Evidently, though it has and always will have limitations. According to four psychologists reporting in the Journal of Social Issues, patients and group leaders agree that most patients have been benefited by group psychotherapy, although it is not always possible to say how. No one appeared the worse for it, though some had to supplement it with individual treatment. The main value of the therapeutic sessions seemed to be in breaking down the barriers which shut off an individual from his neighbors through helping him realize that he and they have the same problems and shortcomings.

Market, In Slow Session, Moves Irregularly Lower

NEW YORK, June 1 (AP)—In the slowest full session in 20 months, the stock market today moved irregularly lower.

For the entire list, the losers amounting to 465 issues held the edge over gainers at 319 issues. There were only 1,041 issues traded as compared with 1,053 yesterday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks edged down 10 cents to $92.40 with the industrial component off 40 cents, rails off 10 cents, and utilities up 10 cents. New highs for the year were made by seven issues and 28 issues touched new lows.

Volume amounted to 980,000 shares, lowest since Oct. 3, 1949. Yesterday the total was 1,200,000 shares.

Tomorrow the stock market is closed, the first Saturday closing in the fourt-month summer schedule.

American Telephone went from the downside to close up ¾ at 155½, for example. Others in that class turning from minus to plus included Standard Oil (NJ) up ¼ at 113½, U. S. Rubber 1 at 65, International Harvester ⅛ at 33¼, Westinghouse Electric ¼ at 37⅜, International Paper ½ at 51, and du Pont ¼ at 95¼.

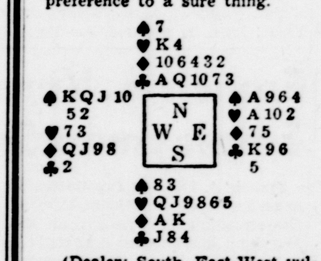
"The Authority on Authorities"

SAVE HIM THE GUESS

IT IS UP to you to save your partner from a guess, when you possess the information which enables you to see an effective defense against the opponent's contract. He may or may not be able to infer what you know. Perhaps the indications, from his point of vantage or disadvantage, may be just the reverse of the facts that actually exist. To depend on his making the applicable deductions amounts to resting your case on mere hopes in preference to a sure thing.



(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	1 ♠	2 ♣	2 ♠
3 ♥	3 ♠	4 ♥

East passed that because be felt, correctly, that making 4-Spades would be doubtful, and West did likewise for the same reason. Each also thought there was a good chance to beat the 4-Hearts, though not good enough to double it. Actually there was a good chance, but not good enough for this pair.

West scored his spade K, on which East for some obscure reason put his 9. Reflecting on that, West decided the purpose of it could not have been to show the A, since the winning of the trick by the K would do that. So he reckoned it was a suit-preference signal asking for a shift to the higher-ranking diamonds instead of the lower-ranking clubs. That combination of elements presented the declarer his contract.

South won the second trick with the diamond K and promptly ruffed the spade 8 with the heart 4. The heart K then was won by the A for the defense's second trick. Back came the diamond 5 to the A. Two more hearts cleared the defenders of trumps and the only trick they still could win was their third, when the club J was finessed to the K.

East should have overtaken the spade K lead with his A, then should have scored the heart A and led the 2. That would have made it impossible for South to ruff out his last spade. A loser in each suit then would have beaten the contract. Or, if East had signaled low, with his 4 on the spade opening, West would have shifted to his singleton club, ultimately assuring the setting trick there with a ruff.

* * *

Your Weekend Question

Do you understand the hold-up play whereby you refuse to use the ace on the first round of a side suit so that you may win the second trick of the suit with it and then make a lead which gives your partner the setting ruff? Can you cite, or set up, an example of it?

Bowling Green Residents Favor New Taxing Area

75 Attend Hearing About Referendum

Some 75 property owners of Bowling Green attended a public hearing last night at the Bowling Green Fire Hall concerning the proposed Bowling Green Special Taxing Area.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners conducted the hearing so Bowling Green residents would have a better understanding of the proposal, which will be subject to a referendum Tuesday, June 12, in the McMullen Highway community.

Most of the explanation was offered by Gorman E. Getty, attorney for the commissioners, who read the bill as adopted by the recent session of the State Legislature. Each section was discussed by Getty and the residents.

A spokesman for the residents said last night after the two-hour hearing that the vast majority of those who attended the meeting are in favor of the Special Taxing Area. The plan would permit the community to install fire hydrants and street lights.

Bowling Green residents will vote at the Fire Hall between 9 a. m. and 10 p. m. June 12. Besides voting on the referendum itself, residents will cast write-in ballots for nine members of the Board of Managers, which will operate the facilities if the referendum carries.

Board Members Receive Oath

The three new members of the Allegany County Board of Education have received the oath of office from Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court, but are not expected to attend a board meeting until Tuesday, June 12.

The new board members are Mrs. Stanley Buckley, LaVale; Mrs. Albert C. Cook, Frostburg, and Kenneth R. Malcolm, Westernport. They took the oath of office from Boden Monday.

Charles L. Kopp, school superintendent, said the regular board meeting will be held June 12.

The three new board members, all Republicans, were appointed May 17 by Governor T. R. McKeldin. Board Chairman Edgar A. Dashiell's term expired May 31. The two holdover board members are Wilbur V. Wilson and Edward J. Ryan. They, like Dashiell, are Democrats.

New List Gives Camp Facilities

Parents looking for camps to provide outdoor fun for their children will find a wide range of facilities offered in the new Maryland Camp List compiled by the Maryland Department of Information.

The list, which includes approximately 80 camps in Maryland, has places for every race, color, creed and pocketbook. The camps are sponsored by various religious and civic groups for children.

In concise form, information on the camps includes race, sex, age range, rates, season, sponsoring group, and address and telephone number of the registrar.

The list is available free of charge by writing the Maryland Department of Information, P. O. Box 706, Annapolis, Maryland.

Operating Engineers Plan Banquet Tonight

Local 37, Operating Engineers (AFL), will hold its annual banquet tonight at 8 o'clock at Wills Mountain Inn.

Robert Jones, president and business agent of the local in the Cumberland area, said some 225 persons are expected to attend.

Among the guests will be Thomas E. Dickson, project engineer for the Army Engineers on the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood control project, and Allegany County Delegate Estel C. Kelley.

W. S. Carder, LaVale, recording secretary, will be toastmaster for the dinner and the floor show which will follow.

WEATHER

The weather yesterday was really "summerish" and sun tan dresses were in fashion. Ideal temperatures prevailed for a walk along a country lane. According to the weather station at Constitution Park the thermometer climbed to a high of 88, the second day this year it has been so warm. The low was 55, at 8:15 p. m. yesterday the mercury stood at 80 degrees. The dewpoint was 60.9 and humidity was 49 percent. Sultry weather is forecast for today and the weatherman says the day will be fair and quite warm with an expected temperature of 90 to 95 degrees.

Red Cross Coordinator

Miss Eleanor L. Wright, safety service field coordinator from Eastern Area Red Cross headquarters in Alexandria, Va. makes notations as she evaluates the Allegany County Chapter's first aid, water safety and accident prevention program with reference to assistance which can be forthcoming from national headquarters for the local organization. Miss Wright, who makes her home in Shippensburg, Pa., has served with the ARC since 1943 and was overseas during World War II as supervisor of Red Cross recreation facilities.

Red Cross Field Executive Coordinates Local Program

Miss Eleanor Wright Evaluates Chapter

Miss Eleanor L. Wright, safety service field representative from Eastern Area American Red Cross headquarters, Alexandria, Va., conferred yesterday with local chapter officials to assist the Allegany County Chapter's first aid, water safety and accident prevention program, Mrs. Harry Beneman, chairman of the local chapter said.

Miss Wright, the only woman safety service representative in the United States, expressly made the trip to Cumberland to evaluate the local chapter's program. She will determine what is being done and how the Eastern Area headquarters can best give aid and assistance to further the project here, Mrs. Beneman noted. It is one of the services supplied community organizations by national Red Cross Headquarters, she stated.

The Allegany chapter is much better equipped for the project, which is being tied in with Civil Defense, than many other Maryland chapters, Miss Wright explained yesterday after the conference.

The area headquarters representative works with chapters in her jurisdiction to coordinate the first aid, water safety and accident prevention program and tie it in with the community, industry, schools, civic organizations and Civil Defense, Miss Wright said. The area Red Cross organization is responsible for highway first aid stations, first aid detachments in industry and department stores and a first aid program in schools and other organizations. Community chapters are responsible for carrying out the program in their areas.

Special emphasis is being placed on first aid currently, Miss Wright stated, especially in the National Aquatic Schools conducted by the Red Cross.

Local chapters can send students to these schools to be trained as instructors in water safety and first aid in an extensive 80-hour course. Home nursing and food handling courses also are part of the training program being conducted through the local chapters by national Red Cross instructors.

Allegany County Chapter officials noted that extensive first aid training courses have been conducted in many local industries including gas and telephone companies, firemen and others as part of the huge civil defense program.

Miss Wright, recently assigned as representative to this area, has approximately 32 chapters in her jurisdiction now and expects to attain more. She currently works in Maryland and part of West Virginia but will soon take over all of West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky.

Safety Program To Be Included In Traffic Plan

Elimination Of Walk Lights Slated Soon

Declaring "the people come first," Chief of Police R. Emmett, Flynn reported yesterday that traffic officers will be instructed to take every measure needed to protect pedestrians when this city's traffic light system is changed.

He said traffic officers will be kept on duty at all times during the new system's trial period to make sure all safety precautions are observed.

Officers will be spotted at strategic points along Baltimore Street, he said, to help pedestrians and drivers become used to the new plan.

Chief Flynn said that it will be necessary for cars which plan to turn right or left on green lights to yield the right of way to pedestrians, as required by Maryland traffic laws.

This will mean, he said, that pedestrians will be dispatched across such an intersection before the cars.

Chief Flynn said the new system cannot be started before about June 11, due to a slight delay in securing amber lens for traffic lights.

He said the elimination of walk signals will allow longer cycles for vehicles.

At present, he said, lights are set automatically to allow 10 seconds for foot traffic, followed by 60 seconds of green, 10 seconds of walk, followed by a minute on red.

The substitution of a three-second amber caution light interval will allow 67 seconds for green and red lights in the same amount of time. He added, however, that the sequence may have to be changed if any difficulty is encountered.

County Tax Bills Sent This Week By Collector

Payments Begin Coming To Office

Some 20,000 county and state tax bills were mailed this week to county property owners in the Cumberland area by Ernest B. Treat, tax collector for District 1, which embraces this area, and he reported yesterday that checks in payment of these taxes are beginning to come to his office at the Court House.

Between 65 and 70 per cent of the county's taxes come from District 1, Treat explained. The Allegany County Board of Commissioners April 17 set the annual tax levy for the 1951-52 fiscal year, beginning July 1, at $1.82 per $100 assessed valuation and figured that the yield, on an assessment of $127,000,000, would total $2,311,400. The state tax rate is six cents for each $100 of assessed valuation.

Treat called attention of taxpayers to the fact that they will receive deductions for prompt payment of county taxes. If paid in June, a 5 per cent reduction is permissible. A reduction of 4 per cent is permissible if paid in July and 3 per cent if paid in August.

The collector observed that interest will start on county taxes September 1 and on state taxes October 1.

Because of the 5 per cent reduction offered in June, Treat expects that most property owners will pay their property taxes this month to get top reduction.

Similar deductions on county taxes are permissible in the Sanitary Districts of LaVale, Potomac Park, Cresaptown and Mt. Savage.

Tax collectors in the county's other two districts beat Treat in getting their bills distributed, he said yesterday. In District 2 the collector is Thomas G. McMorran, Frostburg, and in District 3 he is James Park, Lonaconing.

$9,551 Spent On County Roads

Expenditures totaling $9,551.98 were reported during the period between May 1 and May 15, in the semi-monthly roads report of J. Walker Chapman, county roads supervisor.

In one breakdown, Chapman said that $7,904.64 was spent on roads, $1,498.19 in the shop and $149.15 for miscellaneous items. In another accounting, the supervisor reported that $5,977.09 was spent for labor, $1,582.71 for materials and $1,-992.18 for equipment.

Chapman also listed a large number of projects around the county where the roads money has been spent. Chief among these were $1,-527.06 on the streets of Shaft, $1,-436.48 for Stoney Run Road, $1,-034.76 for the Main Street of Oldtown and $420.88 for the south portion of Orleans Road.

Healy Posts $1,000 Bond In Hit-Skip Case

Darby J. Healy, 12 North Lee Street, yesterday posted $1,000 bond in Trial Magistrates Court before Judge J. Milton Dick following an alleged hit and run accident which occurred Wednesday morning.

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher said yesterday Healy posted the bond for his appearance on charges of failure to stop at the scene of an accident and failure to render aid and assistance to an injured person following the accident.

Edward Hedrick, 26, RFD No. 1, Allegany Grove, was admitted to Allegany Hospital with a fractured left leg and lacerated forehead after being struck by an automobile on Braddock Road early Wednesday morning. He was suffering from shock, attaches said, but is reported improving.

Police reported Hedrick was struck about 2:45 a. m. by a grey sedan ascending Braddock Road after he parked his own car and had stepped into the highway. Witnesses said the hit and run car continued on 50 to 75 yards, stopped and then drove on.

Healy surrendered himself to authorities Thursday night and his attorney, Harold E. Naughton, stated Healy told him he had fallen asleep at the wheel and explained he thought he had just run off the shoulder of the road. Healy related he did not know he had struck anyone until reading about it in the newspaper the following day, Naughton said.

Two Mt. Savage Boys Get Calves

Two Mt. Savage boys, belonging to the Allegany County Dairy Calf Club, have obtained calves in recent weeks, Assistant County Agent Joseph M. Steger said yesterday.

Robert Moore, 10, has an Ayrshire, which was bought from the farm of Stanley Hahn in Frederick County. Ronald Weimer, 12, has a Guernsey, which was purchased from Andrew Hoff, New Windsor, in Carroll County. Earlier this spring Clem Armstrong of Rawlings acquired a Guernsey calf.

Steger said the money for purchase of these calves came from a $750 fund obtained from the Sears-Roebuck Foundation. In payment each boy will have to give up the first offspring from his cow.

Two other county boys, Ronald A. Llewellyn, Midland, and Charles Roboson, Flintstone, want Holstein calves. Steger still has sufficient money left in the fund to get these calves, he believes.

Sale Of Raw Milk Banned In This City

City Board Of Health Issues New Order

The Board of Health of Cumberland reported yesterday that sale and distribution of raw milk has been banned in this city.

At a recent meeting at the home of Dr. C. L. Owens, secretary, the board changed a section of an ordinance on milk permits to read:

"No permit for the sale and distribution of raw milk or raw milk products shall be issued by the Health Officer to any person engaged in the sale and distribution of raw milk and its products in the City of Cumberland and its police jurisdiction."

Some 150 gallons of raw milk has been sold in Cumberland each day, officials said. The other 97 per cent of the daily milk ration of 7,200 gallon is pasteurized.

The Health Department, a spokesman said, does not favor the sale of raw milk.

Much of the raw milk sold, he added, is good, but there is no way to know in advance that it is safe.

Governor Urges Visits To Parks

A personal welcome from Governor Theodore R. McKeldin to visit Maryland State Parks and Recreation areas leads off this year's edition of "Where To Go—What To Do," a publication of the Maryland Department of Information.

The folder which lists 29 state and private recreation spots gives details as to name, location, superintendent's name and address, and facilities and attractions.

In his greeting letter the Governer said, "Maryland's Parks and Rcereation areas have been developed primarily for the benefit of her people. Our continuing program of park development comes as a result of our expanding urban populations and the need of a safety valve to relieve the nervous tensions brought about by living in an industrial age.

"We of the Maryland Executive Department are fully aware of the needs of our people. We have only begun a park program, and we realize that it is our responsibility to develop even greater and better recreation and park areas to meet the future needs of our people and their guests."

The folder is available free of charge by writing to the Maryland Department of Information, P. O. Box 706, Annapolis, Maryland.

Laurel Run Contamination To Continue Maryland Pollution Commission Is Told

Potomac River Is Expected To Stage Comeback As Mine Water Spreads

The contamination of Laurel Run by drainage from the abandoned Kempton Mine will continue, but a stretch of the Potomac River which suffered from mine wastes while the mine was in operation is slated to support aquatic life within the near future.

The David Coal and Coke Company has assured the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission there is no chance that drainage from the abandoned mine will find its way directly into the Potomac and thus contaminate both Laurel Run and the larger stream.

J. Henry Schilpp, sanitary engineer for the commission, said A. R. Matthews, Dante, W. Va., said the streams would not be alternately polluted due to the number of relief outlets on the Laurel Run watershed.

The report followed a conference at the Water Pollution Control office to discuss the pollution of Laurel Run from the mine drainage originating from the abandoned Kempton Mine formerly operated by the company.

The mine, opened in 1914, was abandoned in May, 1950. Whether it will ever be reworked is problematical.

Since the mine was abandoned, acid mine drainage has been discharging into Laurel Run. It was pumped directly into the Potomac from the main shaft while the mine was being operated.

Schilpp said the company pointed out, in reply to the commission's proposal that the company seal several mine openings, that a sealing plan was impractical due to the vast number of outcroppings and shallow workings.

Chemical tests of water from Laurel Run and also of the Potomac River between Kempton and the confluence with Laurel Run show that Laurel Run is badly contaminated by acid mine drainage.

However, it was pointed out that the Potomac, between Kempton and the confluence with Laurel Run, is now virtually free of mine drainage and should continue to improve and support aquatic life within the near future.

Beaver are already locating along this section of the Potomac which was polluted when the mine was in operation, the company said.

Schilpp said the company will make periodic tests of the water and report to the commission.

It was pointed out that the same number of miles of the Potomac should now improve at the expense of 5.5 miles of Laurel Run which is now being contaminated.

The commission said that since the Potomac is the larger stream and more accessible for recreation purposes than Laurel Run, it is hoped that this portion of the Potomac will recover to the extent that it will replace the resources of Laurel Run.

Despite all this theory, however, sportsmen, coal miners and other observers along the Potomac River below Kempton, say the Potomac is still badly contaminated and the waste from the abandoned mines is causing the trouble. They also point out that in addition, five miles of one of Garrett County's best trout streams, Laurel Run, is ruined.

Health Nurses Endorse Mobile Medical Units

Progress Reported In Fund Campaign

Public Health Nurses of the Allegany County Health Department yesterday recommended that completely equipped Civilian Defense trailers be placed in strategic areas of the county to be used in case of war or other civilian emergencies.

In a letter to the Allegany County Emergency Medical Unit Committee, the nurses said:

"It is unnecessary to point out the necessity of such units in case of disruption of service in any of the county hospitals. The nurses feel it is far more important to be prepared beforehand than when an actual emergency occurs."

The drive to purchase two Civil Defense medical units is progressing, John G. Kreitzburg, chairman of the Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), reported yesterday.

He said the fund drive is at the half way mark for the purchase of one of the $2,600 units. A goal of two units was set when the drive opened.

Purchase of the units was suggested by Arthur B. Gibson, city Civil Defense director, upon the recommendation of Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer.

Kreitzburg said Civil Defense authorities are giving considerable thought to the problem of where to locate the mobile units, adding that it will be necessary to station them where they will be of the greatest service to all citizens of Allegany County.

Bowling Green Residents Favor New Taxing Area

75 Attend Hearing About Referendum

Some 75 property owners of Bowling Green attended a public hearing last night at the Bowling Green Fire Hall concerning the proposed Bowling Green Special Taxing Area.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners conducted the hearing so Bowling Green residents would have a better understanding of the proposal, which will be subject to a referendum Tuesday, June 12, in the McMullen Highway community.

Most of the explanation was offered by Gorman E. Getty, attorney for the commissioners, who read the bill as adopted by the recent session of the State Legislature. Each section was discussed by Getty and the residents.

A spokesman for the residents said last night after the two-hour hearing that the vast majority of those who attended the meeting are in favor of the Special Taxing Area. The plan would permit the community to install fire hydrants and street lights.

Bowling Green residents will vote at the Fire Hall between 9 a. m. and 10 p. m. June 12. Besides voting on the referendum itself, residents will cast write-in ballots for nine members of the Board of Managers, which will operate the facilities if the referendum carries.

Charles L. Kopp, school superintendent, said the regular board meeting will be held June 12.

The three new board members, all Republicans, were appointed May 17 by Governor T. R. McKeldin. Board Chairman Edgar A. Dashiell's term expired May 31. The two holdover board members are Wilbur V. Wilson and Edward J. Ryan. They, like Dashiell, are Democrats.

Red Cross Coordinator

Miss Eleanor L. Wright, safety service field coordinator from Eastern Area Red Cross headquarters in Alexandria, Va. makes notations as she evaluates the Allegany County Chapter's first aid, water safety and accident prevention program with reference to assistance which can be forthcoming from national headquarters for the local organization. Miss Wright, who makes her home in Shippensburg, Pa., has served with the ARC since 1943 and was overseas during World War II as supervisor of Red Cross recreation facilities.

Red Cross Field Executive Coordinates Local Program

Miss Eleanor Wright Evaluates Chapter

Miss Eleanor L. Wright, safety service field representative from Eastern Area American Red Cross headquarters, Alexandria, Va., conferred yesterday with local chapter officials to assist the Allegany County Chapter's first aid, water safety and accident prevention program, Mrs. Harry Beneman, chairman of the local chapter said.

Miss Wright, the only woman safety service representative in the United States, expressly made the trip to Cumberland to evaluate the local chapter's program. She will determine what is being done and how the Eastern Area headquarters can best give aid and assistance to further the project here, Mrs. Beneman noted. It is one of the services supplied community organizations by national Red Cross Headquarters, she stated.

The Allegany chapter is much better equipped for the project, which is being tied in with Civil Defense, than many other Maryland chapters, Miss Wright explained yesterday after the conference.

The area headquarters representative works with chapters in her jurisdiction to coordinate the first aid, water safety and accident prevention program and tie it in with the community, industry, schools, civic organizations and Civil Defense, Miss Wright said. The area Red Cross organization is responsible for highway first aid stations, first aid detachments in industry and department stores and a first aid program in schools and other organizations. Community chapters are responsible for carrying out the program in their areas.

Special emphasis is being placed on first aid currently, Miss Wright stated, especially in the National Aquatic Schools conducted by the Red Cross.

Local chapters can send students to these schools to be trained as instructors in water safety and first aid in an extensive 80-hour course. Home nursing and food handling courses also are part of the training program being conducted through the local chapters by national Red Cross instructors.

Allegany County Chapter officials noted that extensive first aid training courses have been conducted in many local industries including gas and telephone companies, firemen and others as part of the huge civil defense program.

Miss Wright, recently assigned as representative to this area, has approximately 32 chapters in her jurisdiction now and expects to attain more. She currently works in Maryland and part of West Virginia but will soon take over all of West Virginia, Ohio and Kentucky.

Safety Program To Be Included In Traffic Plan

Elimination Of Walk Lights Slated Soon

Declaring "the people come first," Chief of Police R. Emmett. Flynn reported yesterday that traffic officers will be instructed to take every measure needed to protect pedestrians when this city's traffic light system is changed.

He said traffic officers will be kept on duty at all times during the new system's trial period to make sure all safety precautions are observed.

Officers will be spotted at strategic points along Baltimore Street, he said, to help pedestrians and drivers become used to the new plan.

Chief Flynn said that it will be necessary for cars which plan to turn right or left on green lights to yield the right of way to pedestrians, as required by Maryland traffic laws.

This will mean, he said, that pedestrians will be dispatched across such an intersection before the cars.

White lines have been painted at all downtown intersections to indicate paths pedestrians will use in crossing streets.

Lines and arrows have been painted to aid drivers in keeping in proper traffic lanes.

Chief Flynn said the new system cannot be started before about June 11, due to a slight delay in securing amber lens for traffic lights.

He said the elimination of walk signals will allow longer cycles for vehicles.

At present, he said, lights are set automatically to allow 10 seconds for foot traffic, followed by 60 seconds of green, 10 seconds of walk, followed by a minute on red.

The substitution of a three-second amber caution light interval will allow 67 seconds for green and red lights in the same amount of time. He added, however, that the sequence may have to be changed if any difficulty is encountered.

County Tax Bills Sent This Week By Collector

Payments Begin Coming To Office

Some 20,000 county and state tax bills were mailed this week to county property owners in the Cumberland area by Ernest B. Treat, tax collector for District 1, which embraces this area, and he reported yesterday that checks in payment of these taxes are beginning to come to his office at the Court House.

Between 65 and 70 per cent of the county's taxes come from District 1, Treat explained. The Allegany County Board of Commissioners April 17 set the annual tax levy for the 1951-52 fiscal year, beginning July 1, at $1.82 per $100 assessed valuation and figured that the yield, on an assessment of $127,000,000, would total $2,311,400. The state tax rate is six cents for each $100 of assessed valuation.

Treat called attention of taxpayers to the fact that they will receive deductions for prompt payment of county taxes. If paid in June, a 5 per cent reduction is permissible. A reduction of 4 per cent is permissible if paid in July and 3 per cent if paid in August.

The collector observed that interest will start on county taxes September 1 and on state taxes October 1.

Because of the 5 per cent reduction offered in June, Treat expects that most property owners will pay their property taxes this month to get top reduction.

Similar deductions on county taxes are permissible in the Sanitary Districts of LaVale, Potomac Park, Cresaptown and Mt. Savage.

Tax collectors in the county's other two districts beat Treat in getting their bills distributed, he said yesterday. In District 2 the collector is Thomas G. McMorran, Frostburg, and in District 3 he is James Park, Lonaconing.

Chapman also listed a large number of projects around the county where the roads money has been spent. Chief among these were $1,527.06 on the streets of Shaft, $1,436.48 for Stoney Run Road, $1,034.76 for the Main Street of Oldtown and $420.88 for the south portion of Orleans Road.

Healy Posts $1,000 Bond In Hit-Skip Case

Darby J. Healy, 12 North Lee Street, yesterday posted $1,000 bond in Trial Magistrates Court before Judge J. Milton Dick following an alleged hit and run accident which occurred Wednesday morning.

State's Attorney Paul M. Fletcher said yesterday Healy posted the bond for his appearance on charges of failure to stop at the scene of an accident and failure to render aid and assistance to an injured person following the accident.

Edward Hedrick, 26, RFD No. 1, Allegany Grove, was admitted to Allegany Hospital with a fractured left leg and lacerated forehead after being struck by an automobile on Braddock Road early Wednesday morning. He was suffering from shock, attaches said, but is reported improving.

Police reported Hedrick was struck about 2:45 a. m. by a grey sedan ascending Braddock Road after he parked his own car and had stepped into the highway. Witnesses said the hit and run car continued on 50 to 75 yards, stopped and then drove on.

Healy surrendered himself to authorities Thursday night and his attorney, Harold E. Naughton, stated Healy told him he had fallen asleep at the wheel and explained he thought he had just run off the shoulder of the road. Healy related he did not know he had struck anyone until reading about it in the newspaper the following day, Naughton said.

Two Mt. Savage Boys Get Calves

Two Mt. Savage boys, belonging to the Allegany County Dairy Calf Club, have obtained calves in recent weeks, Assistant County Agent Joseph M. Steger said yesterday.

Robert Moore, 10, has an Ayrshire, which was bought from the farm of Stanley Hahn in Frederick County. Ronald Weimer, 12, has a Guernsey, which was purchased from Andrew Hoff, New Windsor, in Carroll County. Earlier this spring Clem Armstrong of Rawlings acquired a Guernsey calf.

Steger said the money for purchase of these calves came from a $750 fund obtained from the Sears-Roebuck Foundation. In payment each boy will have to give up the first offspring from his cow.

Two other county boys, Ronald A. Llewellyn, Midland, and Charles Roboson, Flintstone, want Holstein calves. Steger still has sufficient money left in the fund to get these calves, he believes.

Sale Of Raw Milk Banned In This City

City Board Of Health Issues New Order

The Board of Health of Cumberland reported yesterday that sale and distribution of raw milk has been banned in this city.

At a recent meeting at the home of Dr. C. L. Owens, secretary, the board changed a section of an ordinance on milk permits to read:

"No permit for the sale and distribution of raw milk or raw milk products shall be issued by the Health Officer to any person engaged in the sale and distribution of raw milk and its products in the City of Cumberland and its police jurisdiction."

Some 150 gallons of raw milk has been sold in Cumberland each day, officials said. The other 97 per cent of the daily milk ration of 7,200 gallon is pasteurized.

The Health Department, a spokesman said, does not favor the sale of raw milk.

Much of the raw milk sold, he added, is good, but there is no way to know in advance that it is safe.

Governor Urges Visits To Parks

A personal welcome from Governor Theodore R. McKeldin to visit Maryland State Parks and Recreation areas leads off this year's edition of "Where To Go—What To Do," a publication of the Maryland Department of Information.

The folder which lists 29 state and private recreation spots gives details as to name, location, superintendent's name and address, and facilities and attractions.

In his greeting letter the Governer said, "Maryland's Parks and Rcereation areas have been developed primarily for the benefit of her people. Our continuing program of park development comes as a result of our expanding urban populations and the need of a safety valve to relieve the nervous tensions brought about by living in an industrial age.

"We of the Maryland Executive Department are fully aware of the needs of our people. We have only begun a park program, and we realize that it is our responsibility to develop even greater and better recreation and park areas to meet the future needs of our people and their guests."

The folder is available free of charge by writing to the Maryland Department of Information, P. O. Box 706, Annapolis, Maryland.

Laurel Run Contamination To Continue Maryland Pollution Commission Is Told

Potomac River Is Expected To Stage Comeback As Mine Water Spreads

The contamination of Laurel Run by drainage from the abandoned Kempton Mine will continue, but a stretch of the Potomac River which suffered from mine wastes while the mine was in operation is slated to support aquatic life within the near future.

The David Coal and Coke Company has assured the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission there is no chance that drainage from the abandoned mine will find its way directly into the Potomac and thus contaminate both Laurel Run and the larger stream.

J. Henry Schilpp, sanitary engineer for the commission, said A. R. Matthews, Dante, W. Va., said the streams would not be alternately polluted due to the number of relief outlets on the Laurel Run watershed.

The report followed a conference at the Water Pollution Control office to discuss the pollution of Laurel Run from the mine drainage originating from the abandoned Kempton Mine formerly operated by the company.

The mine, opened in 1914, was abandoned in May, 1950. Whether it will ever be reworked is problematical.

Since the mine was abandoned, acid mine drainage has been discharging into Laurel Run. It was pumped directly into the Potomac from the main shaft while the mine was being operated.

Schilpp said the company pointed out, in reply to the commission's proposal that the company seal several mine openings, that a sealing plan was impractical due to the vast number of outcroppings and shallow workings.

Chemical tests of water from Laurel Run and also of the Potomac River between Kempton and the confluence with Laurel Run show that Laurel Run is badly contaminated by acid mine drainage.

However, it was pointed out that the Potomac, between Kempton and the confluence with Laurel Run, is now virtually free of mine drainage and should continue to improve and support aquatic life within the near future.

Beaver are already locating along this section of the Potomac which was polluted when the mine was in operation, the company said.

Schilpp said the company will make periodic tests of the water and report to the commission.

It was pointed out that the same number of miles of the Potomac should now improve at the expense of 5.5 miles of Laurel Run which is now being contaminated.

The commission said that since the Potomac is the larger stream and more accessible for recreation purposes than Laurel Run, it is hoped that this portion of the Potomac will recover to the extent that it will replace the resources of Laurel Run.

Despite all this theory, however, sportsmen, coal miners and other observers along the Potomac River below Kempton, say the Potomac is still badly contaminated and the waste from the abandoned mines is causing the trouble. They also point out that in addition, five miles of one of Garrett County's best trout streams, Laurel Run, is ruined.

Health Nurses Endorse Mobile Medical Units

Progress Reported In Fund Campaign

Public Health Nurses of the Allegany County Health Department yesterday recommended that completely equipped Civilian Defense trailers be placed in strategic areas of the county to be used in case of war or other civilian emergencies.

In a letter to the Allegany County Emergency Medical Unit Committee, the nurses said:

"It is unnecessary to point out the necessity of such units in case of disruption of service in any of the county hospitals. The nurses feel it is far more important to be prepared beforehand than when an actual emergency occurs."

The drive to purchase two Civil Defense medical units is progressing, John G. Kreitzburg, chairman of the Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), reported yesterday.

He said the fund drive is at the half way mark for the purchase of one of the $2,600 units. A goal of two units was set when the drive opened.

Purchase of the units was suggested by Arthur B. Gibson, city Civil Defense director, upon the recommendation of Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer.

Kreitzburg said Civil Defense authorities are giving considerable thought to the problem of where to locate the mobile units, adding that it will be necessary to station them where they will be of the greatest service to all citizens of Allegany County.
